TAFT AND SHERMAN RENOMINATED BY REGULARS ON FIRST BALLOT

Library of Congress

TAFT RECEIVES 561 VOTES AND "SUNNY JIM" GETS 597

G. O. P. Convention Facing Greatest Crisis In Its History Renominates Present Officials—Platform Adopted by Affirmative Vote of 666 —Roosevelt Forces Revolt and Refuse to Participate.

Convention Hall, Chicago, June 22.—With nearly 350 of the Roosevelt delegates declining to vote and hastening away at adjournment time to tender to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt the nomination of a new party, the 15th Republican Convention at the end of a long and tumultuous session tonight renominated William Howard Taft, of Ohio, for President and James Schoolcraft Sherman, of New York, Vice President.

President Taft received 561 of the 1,079 votes in the convention, or 21 more than a majority.

The decision of the Roosevelt people, under direction of their leader to refrain from voting, left no other candidate near the President. The announcement of the Taft victory was greeted with cheering from his adherents, and groans and hisses from the opposition.

When it became absolutely certain early today that Mr. Taft would be nominated without great difficulty, the leaders in control of the convention decided to give him as a running mate his companion on the ticket in 1908.

All others dropped from the race, and Mr. Sherman was the only candidate regularly placed before the convention. A motion from New Hampshire to make the nomination by acclamation was declared out of order. There were many scattering votes on the roll call that ensued.

The convention amid much confusion adjourned sine die.

At no time was there an indication of a walk-out of Roosevelt delegates. They expressed their revolt by silence.

In the confusion just before adjourning a resolution was adopted giving the National Committee power to declare vacant the seat of any one in the committee refusing to support the nominees of the regular convention of 1912.

Sherman's vote was 597.

Taft's Name Presented.

Chicago, June 22.—Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, placed the name of President Taft before the convention for the nomination and in doing so he referred repeatedly to the internecine strife that almost convulsed the convention. He declared that "only once before was the sovereign Nation" attacked, making reference to the Civil War.

"You have heard much late about the people's rule," he said. "Mr. Chairman, and sirs, the people's rule is no new discovery to a sovereign American people. Nor is demagogic employment of the term new to the world's hearing. Through such demagogic employment centuries ago republics tottered and fell and republican liberties were lost in the sway of empires in their stead."

Mr. Harding referred later to the "progressives" when he said that he had heard men 'arrogate' to themselves that title "seemingly forgetting that progression is the first essential to Republican fellowship."

Extolling the record of the Taft administration Mr. Harding declared it would be regarded as the marvel of progressive accomplishment in one administration "had it not been for the attack of disloyalty" in the Republican ranks. He found in President Taft "the finest example of lofty principles since the immortal Lincoln bore the scourge of vengeful tongues without a murmur from his noble heart.

"Rejoicing in the gratifying record of things done," he concluded; "confident of the forward movement of the things we are pledged to do; mindful of the spirit of the time and the requirement of poise and patience; glad of the new hopes and higher aspirations of our people and their faith in National progress and the harmony of his purpose therewith, measuring his capacity by the exactions of experience, testing his patriotism by every demand of honesty, courage and justice; knowing his devotion to his country and its people on behalf of Ohio, and one hundred millions of advancing Americans, I name for re-nomination our great President, William Howard Taft."

The Early Hours.

Chicago, June 22.—After getting underway in an effort to close up its business today, the Republican National Convention was forced to halt and mark time by delay in the reports from the credentials committee.

The convention worked steadily so long as material for its proceedings were forthcoming from the credentials committee and a dozen or more contests were put through under the gavel. In each case Taft delegates were seated.

It was 10:43 when Chairman Root dropped his gavel. The floor was in confusion and the aisles were crowded with delegates seeking their seats. Chairman Root, when some semblance of quiet had been secured, introduced the Rev. John Wesley Hill, of New York, who opened the proceedings with prayer.

Shortly after Senator Root had called the convention to order, Governor Johnson, one of the Roosevelt leaders, left the convention hall. His reason for so doing was explained in the following statement, which he gave out:

"I shall not sit in this convention during the nomination for President, nor shall I consider myself in any manner bound by its acts. Not only was a fraudulent roll foisted upon us to defeat the will of the people, but the law of the State of California, solemnly passed by that State, and acquiesced in by the President and every faction in California, has been nullified. The basic right of the people to rule and the fundamental principle of the direct primary have been outraged and denied. As the Governor of California, sworn to uphold its laws, I feel that my duty is plain, and that as well my self respect demands that I shall no longer remain in the convention.

"All of the California delegation are in thorough accord with me, and desire to retire with me, but I have requested them to remain to carry out the general plan of the Roosevelt delegates."

The first report from the committee on credentials dealt with the Mississippi delegates at large. It recommended the seating of the Taft delegates.

The Roosevelt faction presented a minority report, but made no fight and the Taft delegates were seated viva voce.

Amid a chorus of "Toot, toot", and "Choo, choos" from the galleries, the report on the contest in the Second district of Mississippi was read. The same procedure seated two Taft delegates in the Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Mississippi districts.

One by one the contest reports were brought in, read in a near riot of disorder, and passed.

The fourth North Carolina, Third Oklahoma, and the Second Tennessee, on which there were no minority reports, went through under the gavel, about one-fourth of the delegates hearing the reading of the reports.

A point to put the Washington Taft delegates on the permanent rolls was also put and carried without a roll call. As the Washington contests were concluded, "Merrily We Roll Along," and "Rambled", were added to the vocal programme.

The whistle in the gallery was kept busy "Toot, tooting."

After the Washington contests had been seated there was a lull in the proceedings. While the leaders sat idly on the platform and the delegates roamed up and down the aisles a Pennsylvania delegates equipped with an imagination and a megaphone, announced the following:

"Order of ceremonies:
"Victim—the Republican party.
"Funeral orator—Warren G. Harding.
"Chorist—John Wannamaker.
"Coroner—Jim Watson.
"Undertaker—Elihu Root.
"Pall Bearers—Murray Crane, Boise Penrose, Big Steve, Reed Smoot, Theodore Burton, Bill Burns."

At 1:39 P. M. Senator Root again called the convention to order.

Allen Makes Ringing Appeal

At the close of the consideration of the contested cases Mr. Henry J. Allen, of Wichita, Kas., was recognized and spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Convention: We have reached a point where a majority of the Roosevelt delegates feel that they can no longer share in the responsibility for the acts of this convention. We have contended with you until we have exhausted every parliamentary privilege in the effort to have placed upon the roll the names of men legally elected.

"When by using the votes of the delegates whose rights to sit in the convention are challenged, you took a position which places the power of a political committee above the authority of 77,000 majority elected in a primary in California, we decide that your steam roller had exceeded the speed limit. Since then we have asked for no roll call. You have now completed the seating of all contested delegates, using the votes of the contested delegates to accomplish your purpose. We cannot in justice to ourselves share the responsibility of a convention which has said to Ohio—the home of President Taft—that a majority of 47,000 voters, obtained in a legal primary election, must stand aside for the political dictum of a National committeeman discarded by that same majority. We cannot become parties with you in a declaration to Pennsylvania that a defeated committeeman sitting in an obscure room of this building can nullify the 130,000 majority by which Ohio gave expression to her wishes. We will not put ourselves in a position to be bound by any act in which you say to the majority who rejected Mr. Taft in New Jersey, the majority which rejected him in Wisconsin, to the majority which rejected him in Minnesota, to the majority which rejected him in Maine, to the majority who rejected him in Maryland, to the majority in South Dakota, to the majority in North Dakota, which gave him only 1,500 votes out of 59,000, to the majority which rejected him in Nebraska, in Oregon, Minnesota, Kansas, Oklahoma, West Virginia and North Carolina, that all these majorities added together went down under the mere rulings of a political committee.

"We will not join you in saying to the home State of Abraham Lincoln that the 150,000 majority with which we defeated Mr. Taft and his managers in Illinois was overruled by those very managers with the consent of those who have arrogated us never intended to be there.

"Mr. Payne sought to question the Republicansm of those great Republican States yesterday. Until he can show a better record than is shown by the results of his type of conservative leadership, he is estopped from criticism. When Theodore Roosevelt left the White House four years ago, he left you an overwhelming majority in both branches of Congress; he left you an overwhelming majority in all the great Republican States; he left you a record on which you could elect Mr. Taft; he left you a progressive programme to carry forward. That programme was buried beneath an avalanche of words at Winona and 18 Republican Governors were buried beneath an avalanche of votes which rebuked recreancy to party pledges.

"A big majority in the lower House gave way to Democrats and in the Senate was reduced to a mere majority. So much for your conservativeship, Mr. Payne.

"We will not participate with you in completing the scuttling of the ship. We will not say to the young men of the Nation, who reading political history with their patriotism and longing to catch step with the party of their fathers, that we have nothing better to offer them at this hour than this new declaration of human rights, that a discarded political committee as its last act holds greater power than a majority of over two million voters. We do not bolt. We merely insist

RENOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT ON FIRST BALLOT.

WILSON TAKES UP ARMS WITH BRYAN

Hope of Averting Fight at Baltimore Now Dissipated—Norman E. Mack Says Committee Will Make Parker Chairman—New Jersey Governor Contends for Convention of Progressives.

Baltimore, June 22.—Prospects that the Democratic National Convention would be organized without a fight almost reached the vanishing point tonight with the almost simultaneous issuance of statements by Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, sustaining William J. Bryan's contention for a "convention of progressives" and by Chairman Mack, of the National Committee, that the committee would make Alton B. Parker temporary chairman of the convention.

Chairman Mack's statement came a few hours after Vice Chairman Hall, of Nebraska, regarded as Mr. Bryan's personal representative here, insisted that Bryan would never let up on his fight against Judge Parker. Mr. Mack had been conferring all day with his fellow committeemen and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. His statement was eagerly read by the leaders who had aligned themselves with Mr. Bryan. It said:

"I am satisfied that nothing will prevent Judge Parker's name from being presented to the convention. Not only will the National Committee ratify the action of the arrangement committee by a substantial majority, but the convention will support the action of the organization in naming "Parker." He declared there would be no compromise.

Mr. Bryan's friends and the leaders of the movement for Governor Wilson held conferences practically throughout the day trying to find a candidate a place in nomination for temporary chairman in opposition to Judge Parker. No less than seven names were considered by the Wilson leaders, but nothing was decided upon and it was generally agreed that the best plan would be to await the arrival of Mr. Bryan tomorrow afternoon.

Governor Wilson's friends read with interest the New Jersey Governor's reply to Mr. Bryan's note in opposition to Judge Parker. They openly asserted that Speaker Clark's adherents had formed an alliance with friends of Judge Parker.

At a late conference today among the Wilson forces the names of Senator Culberson, of Texas; J. Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago; Senators Kern and Shively, of Indiana; Governor Plaisted, of Maine; Representative Henry, of Texas, and Senator O'Gorman, of New York, were discussed for temporary chairman.

Will Actively Oppose Parker

Baltimore, June 22.—William J. Bryan will actively oppose the naming of Alton B. Parker, of New York, as temporary chairman of the Democratic National convention, regardless of the attitude taken by the five candidates for the Presidential nomination, to whom Mr. Bryan sent a telegraphic note asking them to join with him in opposing Mr. Parker. This statement was emphatically made today by Dr. P. L. Hall, National committeeman from Mr. Bryan's home State, who has been keeping Mr. Bryan informed of the progress of events here.

Dr. Hall said that the issue over Judge Parker was more clearly defined than ever, and that the fight had to come. "The replies of the candidates so far made," said Dr. Hall, 'clearly indicate that they do not take sides, but that will make no difference to Mr. Bryan. He will never let up in his fight and it will be carried to the convention floor."

Dr. Hall said that the fight against Mr. Parker in the convention might be very close and many delegates would subvert the issue of progressiveism and vote for the choice of the arrangement committee that the matter might be quickly settled, hoping to prevent any party breaks.

Those National committeemen aligned with Judge Parker analyzed the replies of the candidates to Mr. Bryan's note, and declared that the Nebraska leader would find little comfort in them and that he would be compelled to make the fight with only those delegates who joined with him.

Some of the leaders hoped that Mr. Bryan could be persuaded to withdraw from the fight and abide by the decision of the committee in the interest of party harmony. There were reports that there might be a bolt if Judge Parker was finally selected and a party of progressives formed, but none close to the Bryan leaders would confirm this, saying that it was idle to talk of such moves, especially since the delegates and leaders had not threshed it out in convention.

Governor Wilson's telegram to Mr. Bryan in reply to the latter's appeal yesterday to several of the Democratic political candidates, was given out here by the Wilson National campaign

TEDDY'S COHORTS START NEW PARTY

Col. Roosevelt Accepts Nomination on Independent Ticket, and His Followers Pledge Their Allegiance—Representatives of 22 States are Sponsors of Movement—Will Push Organization.

Chicago, June 22.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for President on an independent ticket tonight in the dying hours of the Republican National Convention in which he had met defeat.

The followers of Colonel Roosevelt gathered in Orchestra Hall, less than a mile from the Coliseum, and pledged their support to the former President.

In accepting the nomination Colonel Roosevelt appealed to the people of all sections regardless of party affiliations to stand with the founders of the new party, one of whose cardinal principles, he said, was to be "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

The informal nomination of Colonel Roosevelt was said to be chiefly for the purpose of affecting a temporary organization. Beginning tomorrow, when a call is to be issued for a State convention in Illinois, the work of organization will be pushed forward rapidly State by State. At a later time, probably early in August, it is intended that a National Convention will be held.

Colonel Roosevelt, in accepting the nomination tonight, said he did so understanding he would willingly step aside if it should be the desire of the new party when organized to select another standard bearer.

The speech nominating Colonel Roosevelt was made by Comptroller William A. Prendergast, of New York, who was to have presented the colonel's name to the convention. Dean William Draper Lewis, of the University Law School, who was to make one of the seconding speeches, delivered tonight the address which he had prepared for the Republican convention. Representatives of 22 States composed the notifying committee which informed Colonel Roosevelt of his nomination and in a sense stood as sponsers of the movement.

The committee consisted of Comptroller Pendergast, of New York; Meyer Lissner, of California; Former Committeeman Richmond Pearson, of North Carolina; Frank Knox, of Michigan; Matthew Hale, of Massachusetts; A. R. Garford, David Browning, Kentucky; Everard Bierer, Utah; Walter Thompson, Vermont; Judge Oscar R. Hundley, Alabama; Judge Ben D. Lindsey, Colorado; Andrew Rahn, Minnesota; Judge Stevens, Iowa; Judge Lowd, North Dakota; William Allen White, Kansas; John C. Greenway, Arizona; ex-Governor John Franklin Fort, New Jersey; Colonel E. C. Carrington, Maryland; Peal Wight, Lorenza Dow, Washington; Walter Clyde Jones, Illinois; Frank Frantz, Oklahoma.

Among others who claim to have felt the crush of the "steam roller," were Robert C. Navario, of Cleveland, Ohio, painter of the portrait of Roosevelt which was suspended in the rear of the stage; Frank Knox, of Michigan, Secretary of State; Harry A. Marsh and D. C. Henderson; William Flinn, Pittsburg, who resigned from the Republican committee; Francis J. Heney, of California; Governor Stubbs, of Kansas; Governor Glasscock, of West Virginia; Alexander P. Moore, Pennsylvania; James R. Garfield, Ohio, and Senator Dixon, of Montana, Mr. Roosevelt's manager in the pre-contion.

When the doors of the hall were opened the waiting crowd, held in check by the police, were rushed first to balcony and galleries.

These were quickly filled and the police had difficulty in handling the throng. The crowd extended for blocks in a line four deep.

Resolution Nominating Teddy.

"We, delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention, representing a clear majority of the voters of the Republican party of the Nation and representing a clear majority of the delegates and alternates legally elected to the convention in meeting assembled, make the following declaration:

"We were delegated by a majority of the Republican voters of your respective districts and States to nominate Theodore Roosevelt in the Republican National Convention as the candidate of our party for President and thereby carry out the will of the voters as expressed at the primaries.

"We have earnestly and conscientiously striven to execute the commission entrusted to us by the party voters.

"For five days we have been denied justice in the National Convention. This result has been accomplished by the action of the now defunct National Committee in placing upon the preliminary roll of the convention and thereby seating upon the floor of the convention a sufficient number of fraudulently elected delegates to control the proceedings of the convention.

These fraudulent delegates, once seated, have by concerted action with one another put themselves upon the permonent roll, where they constitute an influence sufficient to control the convention and defeat the will of the party as expressed at the primaries.

"We have exhausted every known means to head off this conspiracy and to prevent this fraud upon the popular will, but without success.

"We were sent to this convention bearing the most specific instructions to place Theodore Roosevelt in nomination as the candidate of our party for President and we therefore deem it to be our duty to carry out those instructions in the only practical and feasible way remaining open to us.

"Therefore, be it resolved, That we, representing the majority of the voters of the Republican party and of the delegates and alternates legally elected to the National Republican Convention in compliance with our instructions from the party voters, hereby nominate Theodore Roosevelt as the candidate of our party for the office of President of the United States, and we call upon him to accept such nomination in compliance with the will of the party voters.

"And be it further resolved, That a committee be appointed by the chair to forthwith notify Col. Roosevelt of the action here taken and request him to appear before us in this hall as soon as convenient."

T. D.'s Speech of Acceptance.

On accepting the nomination, Col. Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen: I thank you for your nomination and in you I recognize the lawfully elected delegates to the Republican convention who represent the overwhelming majority of the voters who took part in the Republican primaries prior to the convention and who represent the wish of the majority of the lawfully elected members of the convention. I accept the nomination subject to but one condition.

"This has now become a contest which cannot be settled merely along the old party lines. The principles that are at stake are as broad and as deep as the foundations of our democracy itself. They are in no sense sectional. They should appeal to all honest citizens, East and West, North and South, they should appeal to all right thinking men, whether Republicans or Democrats, without regard to their previous party affiliations. I feel that the time has come when not only all men who believe in progreseive principles but all when who believe in those elementary maxims of public and private morality which must underlie every form of successful free government should join in one movement. Therefore, I ask you to go to your several homes to find out the sentiment of the people at home and then again to come together and, I suggest by mass convention to nominate for the Presidency a progressive candidate for a progressive platform, a candidate and a platform that will enable us to appeal to Northerner and Southerner, Easterner and Westerner, Republican and Democrat alike, in the name of our common American citizenship.

"If you wish me to make the fight I will make it, even if only one State should support me. The only condition I impose is that you shall feel entirely free when you come together to substitute any other man in my place if you deem it better for the movement and in such case I will give him my heartiest support.

"Wherever, in any State the Republican party is true to the principles of its founders and is genuinely the party of justice and progress, I expect to see it come bodily into the new movement, for the convention that has just sat in this city is in no proper sense of the word a Republican convention at all. It does not represent the masses of the Republican party. It was organized in cynical defiance of their wishes and it has served the purpose only of a group of sinister political bosses who have not one shadow of sympathy with the spirit and purpose of the Republican party of 50 years ago and many of whom have used the party merely as an adjunct to money making, either for themselves or for the great crooked financial interests which they serve.

"But we are more fortunate in one respect than our predecessors, for we who now stand for the progressive cause, the progressive movement, have done forever with all sectionalism, and we make our appeal equally to the sons of the men who fought under Grant and to the sons of the men who fought under Lee, for the cause we champion is as emphatically the cause of the South as it is the cause of the North."

"I am in this fight for certain principles and the first and most important of these goes back to Sinai and is embodied in the Commandment, 'Thou Shalt Not Steal.'"

"Thou shalt not steal a nomination; thou shalt neither steal in politics, nor in business. Thou shalt not steal from the people the birthright of the people to rule themselves.

"There is no use in holding primaries, no use in holding elections if we permit a small group of unscrupulous politicians, some of whom are certainly acting in the interests of big crooked business, to exercise the veto power over the primaries and elections by upsetting the results at their own pleasure.

"The convention which today closes

BASEBALL AT LEAGUE PARK.

Two Interesting and Exciting Games Played There Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon at League Park there was played two of the fastest and most spectacular games of baseball that have been witnessed in amateur circles for some time past. The Wesley Athletics and the Company B team, of the Boys' Brigade, had the honor to be the participants of the performances. The victory in both games was carried off by the strong Company B team, the first game being to the tune of 6 to 2, while the second game was tied up from the third frame until the ninth, when the Company B boys came to bat and sent a man around the circle, which made them again victorious. Both teams pulled off many fielding stunts that were really worth while to be a witness to. The feature of the afternoon was the one-hand pickup of Register, Company B's star shortstop. Batteries for the first game were E. Register and Wilson, for Company B, and Taylor and Lacy, for the Athletics; second game, Fick and Wilson, for Company B, and LeMoyne and Lacy, for the Athletics. By winning these games the Company B team now stands to the front in local baseball circles. These teams will play next Saturday at Hilton, on the Parsley diamond. Everybody is invited to witness these games. No admission will be charged.

WILMINGTON AMATEURS WIN.

Shut Out Acme Team Seven to Nothing Yesterday Afternoon.

The Wilmington Amateurs journeyed to the village of Acme yesterday for the purpose of lambasting the fertilizer boys, and from long distance messages received in the city last night they succeeded beyond their fondest expectations.

For the Amateurs the baffiers were served up by Boswell, whose twirling was the feature of the game. Bell, of the Wilmington aggregation, also starred by Bokerizing the sphere for a home run. For the home team Kind and Trust co-operated at the principal points in fine style, but the city boys simply had on their batting robes and walked off with another victory as a result.

Detroit, June 22.—Cleveland knocked Dubuc out of the box in six innings today. Knapp was effective.

Detroit .....010 001 001— 3 8 3
Cleveland .....110 005 220—11 14 3

DuBuc, Willett and Stanage and Kocher; Knapp and O'Neil; time 2:00; umpires Dennen and Sheridan.

New York, June 22.—Boston made it five straight over New York here today, taking both sections of a double header. McConnell was hammered over the lot in the first game, while Warhop's wildness was his undoing in the second. Both Hall and Collins pitched well for Boston. A phenomenal catch by Wagner in the first game was the feature.

Boston .....034 013 200—13 15 1
New York .....010 100 000— 2 17 2

Hall and Cady; McConnell, Thompson and Sweeney and Sterrett; time 2:00; umpires Westervelt and Evans.

Second game:

Boston .....101 003 122—10 9 2
New York .....100 020 000— 3 9 2

Collins and Carrigan; Warhop, Quinn and Sterrett; time 2:01.

Philadelphia, June 22.—Washington won today's game by 12 to 4. The fate of the contest was settled in the sixth inning when four hits, three passes and three errors netted the visitors seven runs.

Washington ...000 127 020—12 10 3
Philadelphia ...011 010 001— 4 7 4

Hughes and Musserand and Henry; Coombs, Pennock and Lapp; time 2:20; umpires O'Loughlin and Egan.

Chicago, June 22;—Shotten of the St. Louis Americans saved his team a shut-out by hitting one of Benz's curves for a home run today. Chicago won the game 8 to 1, and by driving Powell from the box took revenge for the defeat he administered to them earlier in the session series.

St. Louis .....000 001 000—1 6 2
Chicago .....204 200 00x—8 11 0

Powell, E. Brown and Stephens; Benz and Kuhn; time 1:50; umpires Connolly and Hart.

88 BALLS IN ONE GAME.

Remarkable Record Made by Pitcher Ed Walsh.

In an article on "How to Win Baseball Games," published in the July American Magazine, Hugh S. Fullerton says:

"It is possible for a pitcher to throw only 27 balls in a nine-inning game. No accurate record of the smallest number of balls thrown in any game exists, as no one counts every ball in every game. I scored one game in which Ed Walsh pitched only 88 balls, seven of which were fouls, which I regard as remarkable. I saw Coombs pitch 17 balls to one batter last Summer. The greatest number of pitched balls I ever counted in a game was 211, George ('Rube') Waddell being the victim, and he weakened in the ninth and allowed five runs—showing that the strain was too great even for a man of his marvelous power and endurance."

WOODRUFF RESIGNS

Tired of Ruthless Subversion of Popular Will

Chicago, June 22.—Ex-Lieutenant Timothy L. Woodruff, announced tonight his resignation as leader of the Republican organization of the Brooklyn committee. In his letter to Reuben Haskell, secretary of the Kings county committee, Mr. Woodruff says in part:

"The utterly ruthless subversion of the popular will expressed by our fellow Republicans of the great Republican States, by the National Committee, the Committee on Credentials and finally by this fraudulently constituted convention whereby the destruction of the Republican party is in my political judgment inevitable, as I lead my fellow Brooklyn delegates when they arrived here after I have carefully informed my self regarding the situation, compels me to take this course."

CHILDREN PERISH IN FLAMES.

Six Locked Up at Home While Mother Attends Church.

Anderson, S. C., June 22.—Six negro children, ranging in age from four to 16, were burned to death early this morning when their home in the county near Anderson, was destroyed by fire. Eliza Hunter, mother of the children, was absent from home attending a church service.

The doors of the house were left locked, but the children could have escaped through windows if they had discovered the fire soon enough. All of the bodies were completely burned. The origin of the fire is unknown.

II. The courses offered at Bingham aggregate 2.5 more "UNITS" and average 9.5 more "UNITS" than in any other school of any grade in N. C., according to the Jan. 1911 "Bulletin" by Prof. Walker, of the University.

III. Bingham's graduates rang with the VERY BEST at all the colleges they attend, North and South, and at West Point and Annapolis.

WILSON TAKES UP ARMS WITH BRYAN

committee. The Wilson reply was as follows:

"You are right. Before hearing of your message I clearly stated my position in answer to a question from the Baltimore Evening Sun.

"The Baltimore convention is to be a convention of progressives—of men who are progressive in principle and by conviction. It must, if it is not to be put in a wrong light before the country, express its convictions and its organization and in its choice of the men who are to speak for it. You are to be a member of the convention and are entirely within your rights in doing everything within your power to bring that result about. No one will doubt where my sympathies lie and you will, I am sure, find my friends in the convention acting upon clear conviction and always in the interests of the people's cause. I am happy in the confidence that they need no suggestion from me. (Signed)

"WOODROW WILSON."

Both Senator O'Gorman, of New York, and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, declared tonight that there would be no row in the convention over the selection of a temporary chairman. Mr. Murphy insisted, however, that Judge Alton B. Parker would be chosen, and that Mr. Bryan would meet defeat before the convention opened at the session of the National Committee, which will pass upon the action of the sub-committee.

Bryan May Bolt.

Sudden fear of William J. Bryan bolting the Baltimore convention and forming either a fourth party of a combination with Roosevelt, changed the Baltimore situation yesterday.

With the fight between conservatives and progressives growing worse, it developed that Mayor Gaynor, of New York, has the political advantage of the situation and may yet be a "dark horse."

The conservatives are split into two factions. Those who want to force Harmon's nomination and give Bryan a chance to bolt are one faction. The others are those who want to nominate Clark as a "conservative" in the hope that Bryan will have to support him.

It has developed also that in the Wilson ranks there is a split between those who want Wilson to go to Bryan and fight "the field" and those who want him to take the middle of the road, offending neither Bryan nor New York, which has 90 votes.

Gaynor's friends think that the fight has gone so far even in this short time as to put all of the candidates out of the running except Wilson. They are hoping that Wilson may get into a position of disadvantage by some move.

The Wilson people are working to prevent this. They realize the possibility of a "dark horse" and know Gaynor's present advantage.

At present the situation indicates the following:

If the anti-Bryan conservatives can win their fight, the nominee will be Harmon and there will be a possible bolt by Bryan.

If the conciliatory conservatives control, it means Clark, with a possibility of a bolt.

If the progressives can control, it means either Wilson or Bryan, with no bolt.

If the entire party can get together, it means Wilson or Gaynor.

If Wilson can retain his present political advantage, he will get the nomination; if he cannot do this, Gaynor looms up as the compromise "dark horse."

ANSWERS BRYAN.

Gov. Foss Favors a Progressive Platform—Will Win.

Boston, June 22.—Governor Foss sent the following telegram to William J. Bryan in reply to the latter's telegram opposing the selection of Judge Parker as temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention:

"I believe the Democratic party is so fully committed to progressive principles that the adoption of a progressive platform and nomination of a progressive candidate are absolutely necessary. Upon tariff reduction, abolition of monopoly and perfecting the agencies of popular govenment, our party is united and sure to win the coming election. I hope, therefore, that we shall subordinate all personal issues to those great questions of principle, in order that our party may not weaken the important advantage it now possesses. The tariff overshadows everything else and must be the dominant note in convention and election. Therefore, I sincerely hope to see all Democrats solidly united for downward tariff revision, first of all. We will win on that.

"EUGENE N. FOSS."

Chicago, June 22.—Three hundred members of the Cook county Democracy are prepared to leave today for the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore. The club will be accompanied on the trip by a band of 65 pieces. The members will arrive in New York and remain there until Monday. They expect to arrive in Baltimore Monday evening. The train will be occupied by the members of the club while in the convention city.

Wright SELLS LOTS

On North Third street we have two neat, roomy cottages, each of them having five rooms. The lots are large, the location is good, the price is low, the terms are easy; why pay rent when we offer you such a proposition as this to own your home?

We offer you a store, located on a good corner for the low price of $1,500. This store is renting for $15 per month. Corner Second and Harnett streets, has three new, neat cottages that can be bought at a bargain if sold at once. This is a rare opportunity to secure a good investment.

Two choice lots at Carolina Place. These lots are No. 23 and 24 in block 14. They are a bargain at the price we are offering them to you.

We have three small farms of about ten acres each. They are only a short distance from the city and each farm has two hundred feet frontage on a macadam road. We are offering these for a few days at fifty dollars per acre.

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

Mr. M. A. Chapman, of Butler, Ga., and party went outside yesterday from the Oceanic Hotel in the sharpie Edwin Capt. Oscar Salter, and had a most successful catch of pig fish and black bass.

Miss Irene Scott has been engaged as a member of the orchestra at the Oceanic Hotel, and is expected to arrive about July 1st. Miss Scott is a musician of ability and plays the double bass violin. She comes from a hotel orchestra at Mobile, Ala.

Friday's Savannah Morning News: "Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Allen and their little daughter, Mary, of Macon, are visiting relatives in the city, and will later spend several weeks in Wilmington, N. C., and at Wrightsville Beach."

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Steele returned from Wrightsville, where they spent some time on the coast. Mr. Springs Steele, who accompanied them, has gone to New York, where he will sail for San Juan."

Messrs. J A. Buchanan and H. C. Erwin, Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., went out trolling in Banks Channel yesterday morning and in three-quarters of an hour caught 21 fine Spanish mackerel and blue fish. They went out in the launch "Suwannee," Capt. Salter.

President J. I. Foust, of the State Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro, one of the leading colleges for women in North Carolina, arrived at the Seashore Hotel yesterday for a stay of a week or ten days. Prof. Foust has a number of friends in Wilmington.

Mrs S. H. Chester, of Nashville, Tenn., wife of Rev. Dr. S. H. Chester, is visiting her brother, Mr. E. Payson Willard, at his cottage on the beach. Mrs. Chester is pleasantly remembered here by scores of friends and they are welcoming the opportunity to greet her once more.

C. D. Weeks, Esq., and family expect to go down to Wrightsville Beach July 1st, to spend the remainder of the Summer at the Oceanic Hotel. A number of Wilmingtonians are to spend the remainder of the Summer at The Oceanic, as well as a large number from different parts of this State and South Carolina.

Mr. E. F. Nine, Jr., formerly of Wilmington and for the past few days a guest at the Seashore Hotel, has been made a special agent for the Maryland Casualty Company, of Baltimore, and will leave in a few days for Charlotte, where his headquarters will be. He expects to be a frequent visitor to the resort during the Summer.

Mr. H. C. Erwin of Atlanta, Ga., manager of the Hersey Manufacturing Company, returned yesterday to his home after a brief visit to Wrightsville Beach, a guest at The Oceanic. He was so well pleased with the resort and the popular hotel that he announced his purpose to return with his family and a party of 10 or 15 about July 10th for a stay of some time.

Complimentary to Misses Essie Stokes, of Charlotte; May Richardson, and Nell Causey, of Greensboro, and Frances Park, of Raleigh, who are the guests of his daughter. Miss Lucile Skinner, Mr. Louis H. Skinner gave a dinner at the Seashore Hotel Thursday evening. The menu received the personal attention of Mr. F. Apter, steward at the hotel, and was a most appetizing one.

The Oceanic Hotel is rapidly filling up with guests for the Summer. There were a large number of arrivals Friday and yesterday and some will spend longer than the week-end. Among the arrivals at The Oceanic yesterday were: C. C. Upchurch, D. Blackwell, Mrs. John J. Woodside. Miss Marguerite Gause, Atlanta; Ignatius Fried, Anniston, Ala.; Mrs. B. P. Turner and W. D. McLaurin and children, Laurinburg; G. M. Graham, Atlanta; B. J. Hersman and M. I. Mohn, Richmond, Va.; F. G. Swoffield, Columbia, S. C.; G. M. Gibdon, Atlanta, Ga.; B. J. Hershman and M. J. Marks, Richmond, Va.

A cornet solo by Mr. Claude Elam and a duet for the flute and clarinet played by Mr. Pons and Mr. Correa are the features of today's concerts at Lumina. The cornet solo will be played at the afternoon concert, and the duet at the night concert. The grand selection from the opera. 'Martha," and the "Raymond" overture are two other fine numbers that are scheduled for the concert at night. The Lumina orchestra, which has proved itself to be an excellent organization, has been increased by the addition of another cornet player, as stated in yesterday's paper. Mr. Saucke, who was a member of the orchestra several years ago, has been engaged for the remainder of the season.

The following is the attractive programme arranged by the Seashore Hotel Orchestra for the concert to be given in the lobby of the hotel today from 12 o'clock until 2 o'clock:

Overture, "La Jolie Sultane"—Bres.
An den Fruehling (To Spring)—Grieg.
Selection from "La Traviata"—Verdi.
Cavatina—Raff.
Ballet Egyptian Nos. 1 and 2—Luigini.

Intermission.

Spanish Dances, Nos. 1, 2 and 3—Moszkowsky.
Le Sygne (The Swan)—Saint-Saens
In the Shadows—Finck.
Excepts from Opera "Rose Maid"—Granichstaedten.
March from Aida by Verdi.

Beach residents and visitors generally are invited to attend the concert.

The Seashore Hotel had only a few empty rooms last night and these were expected to be taken before midnight. Among yesterday's arrivals were: Fred W. Cole, Atlanta; R. M. Collier, New York; E. J. Rowe, Birmingham, Ala.; Miss Louise Broyles, Atlanta; Miss Sarah Farrell, Athens; Miss Josephine Mobley, Atlanta; L. C. Webb, Shelby; B. Glass, Columbia, S. C.; who joined Mrs. Glass, who arrived Friday; Mrs. W. F. Dowd, Miss A. B. Dowd, Miss Elizabeth Dowd and Master Sidney Dowd, of Charlotte; Geo. D. Webster, Asheville; Mrs. F. H. Dangerfield, Mrs. Archibald Dangerfield and Miss May Dangerfield, Charlotte; W. S. Tucker, Royston, Ga.; Mrs. Thos. M. Hunter and Miss May Sedberry, North Carolina, and Miss Hallie Porter, Alabama; W. L. Hunter, North Carolina; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Robbins and Miss Robbins, Phoenix; F. E. Thompson and W. R. Taylor, Richmond; J. W. Tockett, Greensboro; S. L. Watts, Norfolk, Va.; D. K. Futch, Monroe; Wm. Bruce Stevens, Petersburg, Va.; G. F. Pegram, Winston-Salem; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Herbert, Clio, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Slocumb, Greensboro.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE.

Texas Militia Will Act of Own Accord in Emergency.

El Paso, Tex., June 22.—The military chess board of northern Mexico presents a series of likely complications along the American border, judging from the plan of campaign outlined by Mexican Federal officials.

Passengers from Chihuahua predict that the insurrectos will put up no fight at Bachimba, but flee toward Juarez and the American border. Adjutant General Hutchins and Colonel Walker, quartermaster general, both of the Texas militia, are here at the orders of Governor Colquitt, to take such measures as will prevent American citizens from suffering in case of fighting across the river.

It is stated on reliable authority that the Texas military establishment has determined no longer to wait on the government at Washington, and, in case of an emergency, will act of its own accord.

One campaign on Juarez has begun. More than 2,000 men are being mobilized west of here under Generals Sanjines, Jose de la Luz Blanco and Giuseppe Garibaldi. Two columns with artillery will be directed toward Juarez and a third sent southward to prevent a rear attack by rebels from Chihuahua. E. C. Llorente, Mexican consul, said last night while the Federal government was planning to retake Juarez, the town would be bombarded on a line parallel to the American boundary and bullets would be aimed away from the United States. There are those in El Paso, however, who believe no fighting will materialize across the river. The belief is founded on constantly receiving stories from Chihuahua that the rebels are quarreling among themselves.

W. BUTLER DUNCAN DEAD.

Well Known Railroad Man and Banker Victim of Pneumonia.

New York, June 21.—W. Butler Duncan, railroad man and banker, and prominent for decades in the social life of this city, died of pneumonia last night at his home at Fifth avenue and Washington Square.

At the time of his death Mr. Duncan was chairman of the board of directors of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, a place he had held for 25 years, and was a director in many other corporations.

Baltimore, June 22.—P. L. Hall, of Nebraska, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, probably will call to order the Democratic National Convention next Tuesday, instead of Chairman Norman E. Mack. Mr. Mack tonight received word of the death of his mother at Buffalo and immediately left for that city. Hall is from Nebraska and frequently referred to as the personal representative of W. J. Bryan.

GOMEZ WILL PROSECUTE.

Editor of Havana Newspaper Charged Fomenting Revolution.

Havana, June 22.—The publication by El Dia yesterday morning of specific charges against President Gomez of fomenting the revolution in collusion with Gen. Estenoz, one of the rebel leaders, created a profound sensation. The editor, Maj. Armando Arendo, is immune from prosecution under the constitutional rights accorded him as a member of the House, but it is said that the government will attempt to secure the passage of a bill permitting of his prosecution and the suspension of publication of his newspaper.

President Gomez last night directed the prosecution of Dr. Carlo E. Garrido, editor of La Prenza, for an interview given in New York; of El Dia for today's charges against him, and of La Luch for publishing an intimation that the President fomented the revolution.

WEEK'S NEWS AT LUMBERTON

Warm Weather Fine for Crops—Determined to Enforce Dog and Prohibition Law—Believe in Wilmington Property.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 22.—The warm weather of the past several days is reported to have caused all kinds of crops to go to growing very rapidly, and as the conditions were generally very good the warm weather has been of great benefit, though at times first of the week the heat was so intense that it seemed as though work in some lines would have to be suspended.

The town authorities are determined to enforce the dog law as well as the prohibition law, and dog owners who allow their dogs to run on the streets without being muzzled may expect them to be shot. Surely no person can blame the authorities for wanting to protect the people against the dogs, and this rough talk about "the man that shoots my dog" is altogether out of place. There is not much danger in a man who talks so much about shooting somebody.

We do not know how many places in Lumberton sell ice cream, but there is a great quantity of it sold here. Mr. Jno. M. Millan tells us that his milk bill for the month of May was between $95 and $100, while the present month will be well beyond the $100 mark. Besides this he buys large quantities of cream. Of course, much milk is used in cold drinks but the ice cream business here is quite an item.

We are not one who believes in Friday being an unlucky day, and if we had ever entertained any such thought it would have disappeared yesterday. Early in the afternoon Mr. Alf H. McLeod brought us about a peck of the very finest peaches we have ever seen, both in size and flavor. They were just in keeping with Mr. McLeod, who is a great big man with a great big heart. In a short time after Mr. McLeod came with the peaches, Mrs. A. P. Caldwell dropped in and handed us a package with the remark, "there is your supper." It was a dozen and a half of the largest hen eggs we have ever seen. If Mrs. Caldwell had not told us the difference we would have taken them for turkey eggs. Mrs. Caldwell is one of those good hearted ladies who is not satisfied if she is not doing something to make her friends happy, and we are proud of the fact that we are on her list of friends. Later in the evening Mr. John Jones, who had just returned from Charleston, gave us a package which he said he brought from that city for us. No one need think it was booze for it was not, but we enjoyed it immensely. We prize the friendship of these good people more than much gold. We had to pause and think if it was our birthday, but we found that even was not due until after the middle of next month.

Mr. G. A. P. Bowman, the hustling representative of the Southern Realty & Development Company, of Wilmington, has been putting in some good work here during the week, having disposed of 36 building lots in four days. Many of our people have great faith in the future of Wilmington.

The extreme hot weather during the week convinced the management of the picture show that more fans would have to be installed if visitors to the show were to be kept comfortable, and four additional wall fans were ordered promptly. These will be placed within another week and then it is expected that this will be the coolest place in town.

Some of the decorations which were seen on the Wilmington bound train yesterday morning, being displayed from the platform of the rear sleeper, convinced a large number of people about the station that Lumberton people are not the only wearers of silk. We had an idea that so many people had adopted silk garments that it was foolishness to be trying to attract attention by showing them.

How different the primary this year from last when the Congressional fight was on. Last year beer, etc., was plentiful, especially if you were right, but this year there was nothing doing. If the candidates had anything it did not reach this part of the district. We have an idea that they did not have much on this occasion. That family group picture we suspect made some votes. But think of a Congressman dragging his wife and children into politics.

A nine-foot alligator was shot and killed in the Edmunds mill pond a few miles south of here one day this week. It was not known until the day his 'gatorship was killed that there was one in the pound, and no one can say how long it had been there. We are told that one was seen near the R. & C. trestle across Lumber river a few dags ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McAllister left yesterday for Cumberland county where they will spend a few days visiting relatives. They expect to return about the middle of next week.

Mr. Geo. G. French is arranging to move his office into one of the rooms at the opera house.

Some very fine peaches are now finding their way to market. Prices, however, are ruling high.

Talking about sending millionaires to the heathen, who but a heathen would deliberately ruin a nice shade tree near a residence. Last season Mr Alf H. McLeod had some young trees set around his home at Tenth and Elm streets, and they were growing beautifully. A few nights ago some heathen took his knife and slashed one of them up so as to ruin it. After cutting it around the bark was stripped off. The fellow who did it may be big in size, but otherwise is very small.

Travis Bass, a white carpenter, while engaged on a building being erected for the town at the foot of Fourth street yesterday afternoon, fell and was painfully injured. One foot was broken and he suffered internal injuries, the extent of which cannot be ascertained. He was removed to Dr. Pope's hospital on Water street, where he will be confined for several days.

Mr. Victor Clark, of Columbus, Ga., is spending several days here, visiting his sister, Mrs. N. H. Jones, Jr.

Mrs. King, accompanied by two children, arrived from Wilmington yesterday morning to spend some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Britt, of Barkers.

Mr. Jas. L. Stephens, who recently stood successfully the examination as an embalmer, received this week his instruments to be used in that work, and Lumberton now has an embalmer who led the class before the board of examiners. Mr. Stephens is at the head of the undertaking business for Messrs. R. D. Caldwell & Son, and is now prepared in every way to handle any work in that line.

The Robesonian has certainly been giving the news from Chicago during the convention. Manager Hamilton, of the Western Union, also comes in for a big share of thanks for the very efficient manner in which the telegraph service has been handled. Wilson, Simmons and Taft are the favorites here. If T. R. has any friends they are saying little.

Seems to us the railroad rates will have to be worked over again. The fare to Raleigh at $3 from Lumberton is cheap enough, but we are told that $2.45 is all it costs to come from Raleigh to Lumberton via the Raleigh & Southport road. Time was when $5 was considered very reasonable.

At a regular meeting of St. Alban's lodge A. F. & A. M., No. 114, held Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the next term: W. M., Q. T. Williams; S. D., E. J. Britt; J. D., W. P. McAllister; treasurer, C. B. Skipper; secretary, R T Allen. These officers will be installed Tuesday evening, July 2nd.

If any of our people are in doubt as to whether or not some of the boys in town are good runners, they should have been the earth torn up in the neighborhood of Messrs. Hec. McMillan's, Arch Prevatt's and others, last night. We are not saying what caused them to get in such a hurry to reach home, but one poor fellow who was too badly frightened to run had to walk a mile or two all alone.

Col. H. P. Johnson, who with his family, resided here several years ago, was a visitor here yesterday. Col. Johnson moved away from here in 1894, and this was his second visit since that time. He spent a day here nine years ago. Col. Johnson was greeted by many of his old-time friends. He was at one time deputy sheriff, policeman, etc., here. He now resides in South Carolina.

Quite a number of Lumbertonians expect to leave Monday for Baltimore to attend the Democratic convention.

The funeral of Mr. W. H. Edwards, who suddenly died Wednesday evening, was conducted yesterday afternoon from the residence, Rev. C. H. Durham, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. The interment was made near the home.

It is reported that Peter Vallis, who has conducted the Dixie Cafe here for the past three or four years, will sell the business to one of his countrymen and locate elsewhere. A bunch of "Pete's" so-called friends have kept him from doing the business he would have doie by hanging around. The cafe does a good business, but under different conditions would have done much better.

During the past 12 months much has been said and done about water connections in Lumberton, and we are told that, including everything, there are about 175 connections in the town, and only a small number of them pay over 50 cents a moith for water. Water is cheap enough for much more of it to be used than is.

Miss Daisy McClemahan, of Sanford, Fla., arrived here this week to spend some time visiting at the home of Mr. M. G. McKenzie. Miss McClemahan resided in Lumberton when a small child, but her parents, Dr. and Mrs. McClemahan moved away from here possibly 30 years ago. Miss McClemahan only remembers two or three old landmarks here, these being the river, the old gully and one residence.

CANDIDATES IN LENOIR.

Fight Already Warming Up Between Rival Factional Leaders.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., June 22.—County Chairman G. V. Cowper has sent out to the candidates before the Lenoir County Democratic primaries notices of their qualifying under the rules and regulations. The number of candidates now announced includes three for sheriff and two each for register, treasurer and representative, and these are making decidedly the most interesting local campaign in years. An unusual number of aspirants for the board of county commissioners are adding further excitement to the contest, and before the primary on June 29th, interest will be at fever heat. Personalities have been indulged in in newspaper exchanges between rival factional leaders in one case already.

A number of cases of smallpox were located in Kinston by City Physician Hyatt, after he had first discovered the disease in a negro family on Tower Hill road. The entire family was affected with the disease, and upon investigation the health officer found several other cases in the vicinity.

A unique family reunion is being held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Moore in this city. The participants are four aunts of Mrs. Moore, the surviving daughters of the late Rev. W. H. Cunningham. Mrs. Edith C. Bransom, of Atlanta; Mrs. Kate Richardson and Maggie Griffin, of Durham, and Mrs. Jennie Ormond, of Ayden, N. C., are the happy guests. The oldest of the sisters is 76 and the youngest 70.

A joint meeting of young people's religious bodies of Kinston was held in the Christian church, and reports received from delegates to the recent State conventions of the Baptist Young People's Union, the Epworth League and the Christian Endeavor Society. A musical programme and a series of short addresses were enjoyable features.

FUNERAL OF MRS. THOMPSON.

Remains Laid to Rest in Family Cemetery Near Iona Church.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 22.—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Thompson, whose death was reported in this morning's Star, was conducted from the residence today at noon and the remains were carried to the family cemetery near Iona Presbyterian church for interment. Rev. R. E. Steel, pastor of the Lumberton Presbyterian church, conducted the services, being assisted by Rev. Mr. Buckner, of Dillon, and Rev. Mr. Bradly, of Lumberton. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

JUDGE BRIGGS TO RALEIGH

Will Form Partnership With Judge R. W. Winston—$100,000 Hotel for Durham—Will be Called "The Taurus."

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Durham, N. C., June 22.—Judge J. Crawford Biggs, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, has formed a partnership with Judge R. W. Winston, of Raleigh, and will take up his work as a member of this firm in the capital city the first of July.

That Judge Biggs intended leaving the city has been known to several for the past few days, but he has made no formal announcement of his intention as yet. He is not at present in the city, being in Raleigh at the stockholders' meeting of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. However, it is a known fact that he will go to Raleigh in a few days to form the partnership with the former Durham man, who up until the death of Governor Aycock was a member of the law firm of Aycock & Winston.

Judge Biggs has a State-wide reputation, gained on the bench as a practitioner. He has been a resident of Durham for the past 15 years and his reputation as a lawyer is one of the best. For several years he was connected with the University Law school and since his resignation from the Superior Court bench a little more than a year ago, he has been a member of the Trinity Lay Schol. He has represented this county in the Legislature, and is at present serving his second term as county chairman of the Democratic executive committee.

During his 15 years' residence in this city he has been connected with the progressive movement of the city, he is one that Durham will greatly miss. His leaving will also deprive the city of one of her most charming social ladies, as Mrs. Biggs is among the most popular here.

His leaving will necessitate the election of a chairman of the Democratic executive committee. So very few people knew of his intended leave that there has been very little talk of his successor, however, a few names have been offered, among them Mr. R. P. Reade and Mr. Jones Fuller. The election will take place directly after Mr. Biggs makes his resignation, as the campaign has been started and there is a lot of work before it.

Mr. Lee Paschall, of Richmond, arrived in the city this morning and stated that he was here to push the work on the handsome $100,000 hotel, that is in reality to belong to Durham, as many of her leading men are stockholders in the concern. The site is on East Main street, opposite the court house It is 100x132 feet and will give the building a roomy appearance when completed. The building is to contain close on to 200 rooms, many with private baths.

The contract for the building has been let to the Wise Granite Co., of Richmond, who make a specialty of hotel building. The building will be made of granite and tapestry brick. It will be entirely fireproof and every mode of convenience will be installed. Electric elevators put in that will allay the inconveniences of stair climbing. Special efforts will be made to beautify the first floor. It will contain the dining room, barber shop, cigar stand, news stand, pool room and a magnificent, well arranged lobby. But the roof will be the pride of all Durham, a roof garden will be arranged, similar to those in larger cities and here the guests will be able to enjoy themselves on warm nights. Tables will be arranged and refreshments served. From top to bottom, the hotel will be as near perfect as money and brains can make it.

The name is to be "Taurus," unanimously agreed upon by all concerned. It is a Latin name and means Bull. This name is in accordance with the city as it is known far and wide as the Bull City.

NEW ENTERPRISE FOR BLADEN

Sanitarium to Be Opened at Mineral Springs Near Clarkton

(Bladen Journal).

Our esteemed friend of former days' Mr. Harry P. Deaton, of Mooseville, N. C., with a friend from Pennsylvania, was in the office Monday. Mr. Deaton has charge of the noted Bladen Springs property. This property of several hundred acres of well-timbered land is about 10 miles from Clarkton, and near the Cape Fear river. On this property is a celebrated mineral spring not very far from the river which has a regular boat line with steamers plying between Wilmington and Fayetteville. It is proposed to establish here a sanitarium. The parties back of the scheme have ample capital, Mr. Deaton informs us, and we will rejoice to see the consummation of so important a movement for Bladen.

DYNAMITED FOR RAIN

Experiments Made Near San Antonio, Texas—Partially Successful

San Antonio, Texas, June 22.—Splendid rains have prevailed this year throughout the greater part of Texas, yet the wish for more rain just at the time it will do the growing crops the most good has induced farmers in several sections of West Texas to experiment with dynamite to produce rain. Residents of Stamford, Anson and Hamlin, in Jones county exploded about 5,000 pounds of dynamite, beginning about 10 o'clock in the morning and continuing until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At the latter hour big drops of rain were falling and, though the showers were intermittent that day, heavy clouds banked up and good rains fell during the next two days. Experiments in rain-making are also being made near San Antonio.

VOTE IN SIXTH DISTRICT

Majority of H. L. Godwin Was 3,050—Members Executive Committee

Dunn, N. C., June 22.—Complete returns from the Sixth district Congressional primary received here today from the seven counties in the district show the vote by counties for the two candidates for Congress as follows:

Godwin, Bladen, 329; Sinclair, 174. Brunswick, Godwin 259; Sinclair, 109. Columbus, Godwin, 934; Sinclair, 230. Cumberland, 552; Sinclair, 424. Harnett, Godwin, 704; Sinclair, 2? New Hanover, Godwin, 567; Sinclair, 51. Robeson, Godwin, 1,080; Sinclair, 364. Total, Godwin, 4,425; Sinclair, 1,375.

In the primary the following Executive Committee was elected:

Bladen, J. B. Clark; Brunswick, Peter Rourk; Columbus, Elmo Powell; Cumberland, Geo. McNeill; Harnett, J. C. Clifford; New Hanover, Woodus Kellum; Robeson, B. O. Townsend.

The returns from the primary show that the farmers were so busy all of them did not vote. On account of weather conditions, extreme cold and rainy weather, the farmers were very much behind with their work. Taking into consideration this fact and the further fact that Hoke county has been taken from the Sixth district the returns show that about 75 per cent of the Democratic vote in the Sixth district was polled.

Congressman Godwin was seen here today by your reporter just before leaving for Washington where he will remain until Congress adjourns, and was asked if he had anything to say. He stated that he was well satisfied with the result of the primary, and felt profoundly grateful to his friends throughout the district for the very flattering vote he had received. He expected a light vote because he knew the farmers were very busy. He says he will continue to serve the people in the future as in the past to the best of his ability.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., under Act of Congress, March 2nd, 1874.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday, at $6 per year, $3 for six months, $1.50 for three months, 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year, $1; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obituary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate, and like matter, will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line, or if paid cash in advance, a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to readers of the paper.

Advertisements discontinued before expiration of contracts are charged transient rates for time actually published. Payment for transient advertisements must be cash in advance. Contract advertisers will not be allowed to exceed their space at same rates, or advertise anything foreign to their regular business without extra charge. Advertisements to occupy special place will be charged for according to position desired.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call either, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

Sunday, June 23, 1912.

Some men haven't got politeness enough to know how to talk over a telephone.

Don't feel like a bull moose one day and then kick like a ticky steer the next day.

Taft's smile has so broadened that it looks like the twin brother of the horse laugh.

If you ever get to be President for goodness sake be careful what you do when you get to be an ex-President.

Don't butt your head against a brick wall. The best way to get over it is to soft-soap a husky friend who is willing to give you a lift.

Some men want to rule the roost so they can crow over others and strut around and look bigger than the real size allotted to them.

One reason why the estimable Colonel Bryan cannot make any political progress is that he insists on hugging some sort of delusion while the throng wants to embrace every opportunity to win.

A Chicago judge has decreed that $2 a week is sufficient to keep a baby. Of course, that would be all right for a Chicago baby, but it isn't enough to give a Wilmington baby one joy-ride a week.

The campaign will wind up with emnity between many former friends. It is a curious fact that some men permit themselves to fall out about candidates who wouldn't help either one in a fight.

Somebody else may think he is the biggest man in America but it makes William Barnes, Jr., laugh to think how easy it is to sit down on a man who tuned up and cried at the grave of Napoleon.

Mr. George W. Perkins' candidate declared: "We battle for the Lord." No doubt that's news to Colonel Perkins. He put up his money just for the fun of seeing a helpful friend 'knock 'em through the ropes."

The eminent Nebraskan seems to be more concerned over the selection of a temporary chairman for the Baltimore convention than he is in helping the convention to nominate a Presidential candidate on the first ballot.

"We stand at Armagedon and we battle for the Lord," declared the Rough Rider at Chicago. Isn't he mistaken in the idea that the Lord would make a leader of a man who boasts of shooting a Spanish milycoddle in the back?

Boston is to have a hospital for the cure of the blues. No doubt a great many men have the blues because they violate the blue laws of Boston. When a man paints the town red he is sure to get blue and suffer punishment at the hands of R. E. Morse.

Fall in with the majority. People who stick to the minority are liable to get grouchy if they keep on trying to rule the majority. A man who pretends to believe the people should rule acts entirely to the contrary when he "takes it into his head" that the minority ought to rule the majority. Most of the sour, bitter and irreconcilable men today are those who are out of sorts because they cannot run things on their own schedule. It is the butt-headed fellow who is not willing to compromise and split differences in order to get the best out of every situation in which conflicting interests threaten a good cause. It is the wise man, who, not able to get a whole loaf, will take half a loaf. It's the fool who bucks the line till he can't get even a crumb.

COTTON ACREAGE CURTAILMENT

In spite of the earnest campaign for curtailment of cotton acreage, New York cotton authorities contend that there has been little or no curtailment. On the other hand, the Hon. E. J. Watson, president of the Southern Cotton Congress, claims that the acreage has been reduced about 15 per cent.

The New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle, basing its observations upon reports and statistics, comes to the conclusion that "the agitation for reducing the acreage planted in cotton this year, on account of the unprecedentedly large crop of last year, and the unusual surplus likely to be carried over, has had very little effect." Referring to the Chronicle's cotton article, the New York Journal of Commerce says of its estimate:

"It places the net reduction for all the cotton States at the surprising figure of a little more than one-half of one per cent, while the agitators, in advance of the planting season, were urging a curtailment of 25 per cent, in order to keep up and increase the price. Our own estimate of curtailment was 7.6 per cent, and several trade estimates slightly exceeded this figure. The reason for this relative failure to curtail is quite obvious. Notwithstanding the yield of last year, which is stated at 15,600,000 bales, compared with the previous high record of 13,828,846 in 1908, there was no such depression in price as was apprehended. Eleven to 12 cents a pound makes cotton the most remunerative crop for the States that are adapted to its cultivation, and planters are sure to be more affected by the return they are actually getting when the new season opens than by the arguments of alarmists.

"The 'Chronicle's' table of acreage and crop yield from 1870 down to last year shows that area planted is not the most important gauge of the season's output. A much more fluctuating factor is the yield per acre, which is affected by vicissitudes of climate. Last year it was 204 pounds, compared with 168 in the previous year and 153 in 1909; but that is considerably below the high record of 240 pounds in 1898. This is a factor which is not to be calculated upon in advance, and the planter has to take a chance, but here again his action is determined by the profit from his latest crop. The season set in late this year, but not much later than last, and the crop is but little behind that which turned out so well in the end. It has had some unfavorable conditions to contend with, including the floods on the lower Mississippi, but that is frequently the case and there is always the possibility of recovery as the season progresses."

The Journal of Commerce goes on to make this comment:

"The prospect at present is for a good cotton crop with a fair price for the staple in the world's markets. The fact is that the consumption of cotton has been expanding rather more rapidly than production, and the dependence of European manufacturers upon the American supply is not diminishing. Efforts at supplementing it from new quarters make but little progress thus far. It is well that Southern calculations are becoming more conservative, but experience will continue to show tha futility of schemes for artificially controlling the market. There is need of system and method in trying, so far as practicable to adjust supply to demand in a way to maintain a profitable return, but projects for securing more than that by 'valorization' in one form or another will cost more than they come to and do more harm than good even to the planters."

There has been talk of the valorization scheme but it has not been seriously proposed. Dependence has been put upon reduction of acreage as the best means of adjusting the supply to demand. There is need of system and method in trying to do that, says the Journal of Commerce, but while suggesting regulation of the supply that great paper condemns curtailment of production as the means. As a matter of fact, there can be no better "system and method" than reducing the acreage in order to limit the supply.

THERE'S BOUND TO BE A ROW.

The late John Lowlow, the famous clown who was one of the great features of "Old John Robinson's Shows," used to bring down the house with a song entitled "There's Bound to be a Row." We recall it on the eve of the assembling of the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore next Tuesday. It appears that since there was a fine prospect for the Democracy in the coming election, the party would unite and win a sweeping victory, but as the day approaches for the great convention, the whole country is led to believe "there is bound to be a row."

It is inexpressibly painful that it is so, but we hope it will be avoided if possible. Everything pointed to a fairly harmonious convention till it came time for the National Committee to select the temporary chairman. It was made known that the committee leant towards the Hon. Alton B. Parker as temporary chairman, and it was then that Col. Bryan got busy and "started something." He was in Chicago, but he had his eyes and thoughts on Baltimore. He wired and phoned from Chicago to Baltimore and protested and argued against the selection of Judge Parker for chairman. The committee was face to face with a delicate and embarrassing situation, but it met it fearlessly. It stuck to Judge Parker and apparently defied Bryan who threatens to go before the convention next Tuesday and have the action of the committee reversed as to Parker's selection.

Col. Bryan also wired to all the Democratic Presidential candidates to join him in objecting to Judge Parker, thus tremendously embarrassing the candidates, each of whom doubtless was well aware that it was loaded. It is not at all likely that any of the candidates cared to precipitate a situation which meant so much to them, but Col. Bryan got them into it before they could say "Jack Robinson." The trouble about it is that Bryan could afford it while they could not. It was not fair of him to attempt to drag them into a fight against so distinguished a man as Judge Parker, and especially in view of the fact that the distinguished New York jurist had himself once been the party's nominee for President.

In his appeal to the Presidential candidates, Col. Bryan places his action on the ground of harmony. His objection to Judge Parker as a "reactionary," which the Colonel applies to every man who is supposed to be conservative like the great New York jurist. It is suggested that it would never in the world do for a "reactionary" to deliver the keynote address for a convention that is progressive. Col. Bryan makes himself a judge both as to the "reactionary" classification of Democrats and as to progressivity of the convention, but those Democrats who wish to avoid friction and hope for the party to win, are not willing to assume that the Baltimore convention will be anything but a Democratic convention—not a "progressive" convention and not a reactionary body.

It is unfortunate that Col. Bryan sprung a matter that would divide Democracy into two wings at a time when everybody wanted it to be forgotten that there was anything of the kind. There is no reason why there should be two factions at this time, for the one object is to beat the Republican party on the mean issues that divide the parties without reference to the non-essential questions that really do not figure in a National campaign. Certainly all questions upon which the party cannot unite at this time should be avoided, and it does not lie in either Bryan or Parker to commit the party to anything but Democratic principles.

So much importance need not be attached to "keynote" speeches, for not a half dozen Democrats, even Bryan himself, could deliver a keynote that would necessarily bind the party. In fact, the keynote business should be left for the convention and it shouldn't be any more given by Bryan than by Parker. Speeches, keynote, crown of gold, and otherwise, should be received only as so much information and expressed opinion of the individual. Certainly no one can commit the Democracy by his speech, whether it is so-called reactionary or so-called progressive.

Col. Bryan's activity indicates to some his assumption of proprietorship of the Democratic party, and however much he may be esteemed he can blame himself if he precipitates a fight in which it will be necessary for either him or Judge Parker to be repudiated without very much ceremony. The so-called reactionaries are not insisting on a reactionary keynote, and the progressives have no more reason than they to try to keynote something that may, as usual, throw all the fat in the fire. The Democrats of this country will look to the Baltimore convention for a fairly acceptable platform and a nominee who can win, and they do not care who presides or who expresses his own opinions as a so-called keynote for the campaign.

TUESDAY AT BALTIMORE.

The masses in this country are looking to the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore next Tuesday to come to the relief of the people and the Nation. It depends upon what is done whether the candidate nominated at Baltimore or the one named in Chicago will be the next President of the United States. It depends upon the platform to be adopted whether the country is to choose a Democratic or a Republican Congress.

It must not be assumed that the Republican candidate can be easily defeated by any man that the Democrats may name. It depends upon the platform and the candidate of the Democracy whether there is to be a renewal of confidence in the Democratic party. The masses have too much at stake and the Nation faces too much of a crisis to have this opportunity to win frittered away by a nomination and a platform that will not challenge more support than will be given to the Republican party's platform and its nominee.

If action will be in the interest of the people and the nominee is a man who appeals to the people, the Democrats will sweep the country. The man who has shown the greatest strength all over the country, and especially in doubtful States which it is necessary to carry, is Woodrow Wilson, and The Star predicts that the New Jersey Governor will be the nominee. He is entitled to the nomination on the showing of the campaign for the nomination. Although all the candidates for the nomination are strong and acceptable men, all must admit the Nation-wide possibility of carrying the whole country with Wilson as the Democracy's standard bearer.

Don't undertake any spectacular act till you are right sure you won't fall down and bring the laugh down on you.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, slipped in a bath tub in Baltimore and injured himself. The North Carolina editor, who uses the creek at home for bathing, never has any accidents.—Richmond Journal.

"Where would the $615,000 appropriation for the upper Cape Fear improvement project have been had it not been for Senator Simmons?" asks the Fayetteville Index. It would probably have been where that large appropriation for a decent postoffice for Winston-Salem was until within the last year.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Now that condemnation of Alton B. Parker for the position of chairman of the Democratic Convention, by the Hon. William Jennings Bryan, was rather little upon the part of the Commoner, and it would have been more becoming in some cross roads politician. It will be a great day for Democracy when William Jennings can get the idea out of his head that he owns the Democratic party and that the Democratic donkey is his for keeps.—Rocky Mount Telegram.

The Democratic convention is going to be anti-Bryan just to show the country that Bryan is not the boss. The Democratic party does not tolerate bosses long and the country is suspicious of Bryan. It does not matter if Bryan is right, the country is going to be shown that he does not dictate the policy of the party, and though the party may go his way, they do not intend to go with him or under his leadership. That is a very good idea. It will give the party some support that it would not get otherwise, and the principles are all safe, so far as we can see.—Florence Times.

Slugged over the ropes. Down, but not yet out, Roosevelt is whipped and refuses to admit defeat. To prevent a knock-out blow he will foul his antagonist and be ruled out of the ring for refusing to follow the recognized rules of sport. The colonel is whipped and doesn't know it. His hat has been kicked out of the ring and the referee is against him. He has simply played for an opening every time he sparred, while his opponent has delivered straight jabs and undercuts in every round. He is now breathing hard and feinting to kill time and snatch a favorable opportunity for a telling blow. He is glad every time the bell rings and staggers when he returns to his corner. The battle will be a long one, and the Oyster Bay champion is feeling the weariness of the fray. He sees defeat staring him in the face, but fights doggedly on, taking his punishment with bad grace. According to the estimate of his friends, he came to the ringside in the pink of condition and really did show some of his old form and greeted his admirers with enthusiasm, but the word has been passed around that the old-time champion has failed to come back. If he ever battles again it will be in a lighter class. He is no longer the heavyweight champion of the world. He must join the ranks of the has-beens. He is beaten to a frazzle.—Richmond Journal.

OPPOSED TO REMOVING PIAZZAS

Editor Star:—On first hearing that the people were to be made to take their piazzas off the streets I considered it a sensational rumor but on receiving an official notice of a meeting of the Council to consider the matter, it now looks somewhat serious. The officials should move very cautiously when it comes to radical changes from old things. There was a progressive rector at St. James' church some years ago who had that "unsightly wall" taken from around the old graveyard. Many of our people deplored the loss of the venerable landmark.

I heard a young man say that when a boy he was ashamed to have his companions come to his house and see the ugly sideboard (mahogany) when their houses had new ones of oak.

Why this sudden fever?

I can recall countless numbers of houses which had piazzas or steps on the streets many years ago. They have nearly all gradually been removed and in a few years at most these few left now will change hands and disappear. Let some one recall and number them. The few now under consideration are mostly homes of old respected citizens who have paid their taxes promptly and done only good for the town. It seems to me it would be short of criminal to force the removal of these piazzas from these homes. Consider the expense as one of the least evils. The loss of these piazzas would destroy the comfort of these homes. Consider the nerve strain its loss would cause and the discomfort of the noise and dirt to have the work done.

Now do not for a moment think I am opposed to improvement in Wilmington. But if you wanted to add beauty to an ugly person would you cut off his nose? What a sight these venerable old landmarks would present. What an unnecessary expense to put upon the decent, law-abiding citizens when very soon they must yield to the march of time and be changed.

Why don't the officials attend to the real evils? Stop the blind tigers that everybody sees but them and the policemen. Clear out the places right in our midst reeking with crime and filth, a disgrace to the town and more than a nuisance to the neighbor.

The piazzas on Second street between Dock and Orange are very small evils compared with the haunts of sin behind them in the alleys.

Most of these old houses are very decent looking and there is plenty of room to walk by them. At some of them the permanent work is already done.

The inconvenience of those who have "to do stunts walking around these places" is small indeed to the terrible trouble the change would bring to most of us.

As for St. James' steps, it would be almost sacrilege to take them away now.

Wait a little while. There is plenty else to do more needed and so many of us love the old mahogany in preference to the new oak furniture. We are no big city to sacrifice our people to "progress." Let that come later if it must. The Wright house on Third street was built in 1803.

THE NORFOLK & SOUTHE R

Persistent Rumors That Road is Coming to This City—Two Possible Routes May Be Under Consideration

Recurring with a persistency that leads many to believe that they are founded on fact, rumors that the Norfolk & Southern Railroad is preparing to enter Wilmington may be heard on every side now and the article relative to the reports which appeared in The Star Friday morning has caused much interest and comment.

It seems to be generally known that one or more surveying parties have been at work in the northeastern section of the county for the past several weeks and it is said that members of the parties have stated in answer to inquiries that they were surveying for a railroad project. It is said that a local engineering firm has been engaged in surveying through the Acorn branch section and even to the doors of the city at Smith's Creek, which fact, in connection with the well-founded rumors that property owners in that part of the city have been approached by outside capitalists who offered to buy or take options on their property, lends credence to the reports that a railroad is back of the work. It is also known that a surveying party has been at work in Pender county, and also around the Chinquapin section in Duplin county.

Not only in Wilmington and New Hanover, but also in Pender and Duplin rumors are current that the Norfolk & Southern is to extend its line to Wilmington.

The Norfolk & Southern's nearest point to Wilmington is Kinston and the distance between the two cities is about 70 miles. However, from Kinston to Pink Hill, Lenoir county, the Kinston & Carolina road operates, and this is a distance of about 15 miles. This road is said to be controlled by the Norfolk & Southern. There is said to be a logging road between Pink Hill and Beulaville, in Duplin county, a distance of probably eight or ten miles. If the Norfolk & Southern would build from Wilmington to Pink Hill, the distance in a direct line would be about 45 miles, and if the logging road could be utilized it would require something less than 40 miles of road to connect the two cities.

Many believe that the above route is being considered by the Norfolk & Southern, while others think that the road is considering the feasibility of building from Richlands, the terminus of the Dover & Southbound road in Onslow county, to Wilmington, the direct line between these two points being somewhat less than the other route. Either route would be through a section which lacks transportation facilities.

Wilmington business men feel that this city and the Norfolk & Southern would be of mutual benefit to each other and they are eagerly hoping that the rumors that are in circulation will soon crystalize into a definite announcement that the road is coming.

INAUGURATION OF SCHEDULE.

Chamber of Commerce Dinner Suggested as Appropriate Celebration.

Interested persons have made the suggestion that on the day on which the regular schedule is begun over the Wilmington, Brunswick & Southern Railroad, the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce give a luncheon complimentary to the business men of Southport and Brunswick county. While, as yet the suggestion has received no official recognition, it is thought that it will be put before the officials of the Chamber of Commerce in a few days and that they will heartily endorse the idea.

The W., B. & S. was reorganized a short time ago and the control passed into the hands of a syndicate of local capitalists. They have been working to get everything in shape for starting a regular schedule over the road and it is expected that the first regular train will be run before July 10th. The railroad will ultimately mean much for both Wilmington and her sister port at the mouth of the Cape Fear, and it would be eminently fitting to celebrate the inauguration of the regular schedule in the proposed manner.

The idea will doubtless meet with the hearty approval of the Chamber of Commerce and the business men and citizens of Wilmington generally, and there seems little doubt but that it will be officially adopted by the Chamber.

THE RECORDER' COURT

William Hall Fined $25 and Costs—A. B. Cowan in Court

William Hall, colored, who while driving a horse to a road wagon several weeks ago, drove against and knocked down a young white lady, rather seriously injuring her, was found guilty in the Recorder's court yesterday on a charge of assault with serious injury and was fine $25 and costs.

Julius Smith, Horace Wortham and Jim Wilson, colored, were charged with driving unlicensed vehicles. A nol pros with leave was taken in each case.

A. B. Cowan, a white man who was tried on a charge of non-support of his children last Fall and upon whom a road sentence was suspended on condition that he support the children, was in court on a capias charging him with violating the terms of his conditional agreement. Cowan has been away from the city for some time and he suffered the loss of an arm in a sawmill accident while away. He gave bond of $100 to furnish his children the sum of $3 a week, and the case was left open for further consideration until Monday morning. One drunk paid the costs.

Married Yesterday Afternoon

Mr. Roy Nering and Miss Elise Gertrude Smith, both of this city, were very happily married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the office of Justice Bornemann on Princess street. The young couple were accompanied by a number of friends. Justice Bornemann performed the ceremony in his usual impressive manner. Mr. and Mrs. Nering will make their home in the Southern part of the city, where they have many friends who will extend congratulations and best wishes.

"SUMMER BEVERAGES"

The Joys and Dangers of the Heated Season

The Summer days will soon be here again, bringing with them the joys and the dangers of the heated season. Among the special requisites of the warm weather are the carbonated beverages, with "soda water" in its various manifestations as a most conspicuous type. To a very large class of our population these non-alcoholic drinks appeal so strongly as refreshing and innocuous forms of fluid intake that their purity and harmlessness ought to be adequately safeguarded. In respect to the presence of preservatives, artificial coloring matter, saccharin and similar sophistications the "Summer beverages" have been subjected to a careful control by the various authorities entrusted with the enforcement of the food laws. But there appears to be a current misapprehension, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association, in respect to their bacteriologic features which needs to be corrected.

There is said to be a tradition among the bottlers of carbonated soft drinks founded, as far as can be learned, on very meager experimental data, that the conditions under which these beverages are prepared are destructive to bacteria. There has likewise been an unwarranted indifference to the bacterial contamination of many bottled waters whose sparkling appearance and attractive labels have commended them without regard for the possibility of danger lurking within. The basis for the assumed safety of the carbonated waters presumaby rests on the statements that carbon dioxid under pressure is highly destructive to germs. This question has been investigated with respect to two well-known disease germs. The investigations of Young and Sherwood at the Kansas University Water Laboratories show that, although there was a marked reduction in the number of germs introduced into both carbonated and uncarbonated waters with syrup, they were not all killed. They state that inasmuch as only the most hardy individual can resist these adverse conditions for a considerable length of time, the logical conclusion is that no water should be used in the manufacture of a carbonated drink that is in the least suspicious, and if a doubtful water is the only source of supply this should be subjected to treatment by some method of sterilization with subsequent filtration through a trustworthy and efficient filter.—Journal American Medical Association.

TRIP DOWN RIVER

Last Feature of Annual Woman's Missionary Union Meeting

Though the formal closing session of the 24th annual meetings of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Wilmington Presbytery was held Friday afternoon, one of the most enjoyable features of the convention remained for yesterday morning when practically the entire delegation, both local and visiting, were the guests of Capt. John W. Harper on the steamer Wilmington down the Cape Fear to Carolina Beach and the guests of the Brotherhood Bible Class of the First Presbyterian church at an old-fashioned fish dinner at the resort.

The party left the city at 9 o'clock and the trip down the river to the pier was most enjoyable. On arrival at Carolina Beach some time was spent in looking over the resort and enjoying the fine breezes and views. At 12 o'clock the entire party was seated to an old fish fry, and needless to say, everyone enjoyed the dinner immensely. On the return trip the boat reached the city at 2 o'clock and most of the delegates left yesterday afternoon for their homes. Others went last night and a few remained over and will leave today or tomorrow.

The 1912 meeting was one of the most successful in the history of the Union, and much good work was accomplished. In addition to the delegates and visitors, ten foreign missionaries of the Southern Presbyterian church were in attendance.

The meeting of the Union next June will be held at Whiteville.

ON TO BALTIMORE

Democratic Convention Will Hold Center of Interest This Week

The Democratic National convention at Baltimore will hold the center of interest for the people of the country this week. The interest promises to be every bit as keen as it has been in the Republican National convention, which has been in session at Chicago. A number of Democrats will attend the convention from this city and section. In addition to the Associated Press report The Star has made arrangements with W. P. Mangum Turner, Esq., of this city, to send this paper a story every night during the convention covering items of especial interest to this State. Mr. Turner is not only an experienced newspaper man and able lawyer but has a special knack of getting at the true inwardness of things political whether they be local, State or National, and his articles will be read with more than ordinary interest. He will occupy a seat in the press gallery, especially reserved for him, where he will be able to watch at close range the proceedings of the convention. Mr. Turner expects to leave today and will go by way of Norfolk. Mr. Martin O'Brien left several days ago and Messrs. H. C. McQueen and Hugh Wallace are among the others who expect to leave today. Ex-Mayor Wm. E. Springer and Mr. Chas. E. Taylor, Jr., are among those who will leave tomorrow.

Mr. W. A. Williams Bereaved.

Many friends of Mr. William A. Williams will regret to learn of the death of his sister, Mrs. John Chapman Little, which occurred on Friday at her home in Norfolk, Va. She was formerly Miss Ellen Williams, of this city, and was married in February, 1865, to Capt. Little, of Gen. Whiting's staff. She leaves three children, Mrs. James Mann, Messrs. Wm. W. and Henry H. Little, all of Norfolk, Va.

Demonstration This Week.

Beginning tomorrow, Mr. S. W. Galbreath, of the Pittsburg Water Heater Co., will conduct a demonstration of the famous Lion and Monarch water heaters at the offices of the Tidewater Power Company on Princess street. The Lion is the trade mark of the company and in addition to the regular demonstration work, a miniature jungle with mechanical lion and complete stage settings will be shown in one of the large windows. The public is invited to attend the demonstrations.

HONOR FOR WILMINGTONIAN

Dr. Ernest Bullock Favored by State Medical Society

It is gathered from the State press that Dr. Ernest S. Bulluck, a conspicuously talented and successful young physician and surgeon, of Wilmington, was the recipient of a really signal honor at the hands of the North Carolina Medical Society recently in session at Hendersonville. He was made vice president of that august assembly at a much earlier time of life than the honor usually comes to the few who attain it. It is noteworthy that the society, composed as it is of the most eminent physicians and surgeons of the State, should show its marked appreciation of the young men of the profession. It's distinguished favor is to be highly prized, and its broadness certainly is manifest in its consideration of young men of mark.

Young Dr. Bulluck read before the society a paper on "The Practical Application of Iodine in the Preparation of Patients for Operations," and it is observed that this production brought forth extensive discussion and approval on the part of many of the State's best known surgeons.

It will be gratifying to the young Wilmington doctor's host of friends to know this, and it certainly gives pleasure to The Star to favorably mention any of the rising generation, who, by singleness of purpose and patient industry, are striving earnestly to attain mastership in the various paths of endeavor.

ANNUAL POLICE OUTING

Member of the "Finest" Will Give Excursion in July

Wilmington's finest, which being interpreted means that sturdy body of blue-clad men who uphold the dignity and majesty of the law in the city, will enjoy their annual excursion to Carolina Beach Thursday, July 18th, and already the members of the force are looking forward with much anticipation to the day at the popular resort. They will be accompanied, as always, by many of their friends and the excursion will be quite an event.

One of the features will be the annual dinner, with probably a pie-eating contest by way of variety. Members of the department are hoping that this will materialize, as they are anxious to determine once and for all to whom the honor of pie-eating belongs. Among the favorites are Assistant Chief C. W. Woolard, Sergeants E. J. Grimsley, better known as "Peter Jackson," and "Woody Howell," whose belts would fit several ordinary men, and Plainclothesman Frank George, known to the force as "Reuben," who, though built on the lines of a race horse, is said to possess a capacity for pie that is awesome and dismaying.

Three boats will be operated during the day, at 9:30 A. M., and 2:30 and 7:30 P. M., and the last boat returning will reach the city about midnight. Tickets will be placed on sale in a short time.

Mrs. Jas. O'Connor Stricken.

It will be learned with much regret that Mrs. James O'Connor, mother of Mrs. Wm. E. Cox, was stricken with apoplexy at the home of her daughter, near Third and Red Cross streets, Friday night, and that her condition is regarded as critical. The many friends of Mrs. O'Connor and her daughter will hope for an early improvement in her illness, which, however, is regarded as of a grave nature.

No. 67, Capt. Burke H. Bridgers, Carried Off the Initial Honors in the Jones-Walter Trophy Series at the Beach.

Yacht No. 67, Capt. Burke H. Bridgers, won the first race of the season for Class A boats over the regular course of the Carolina Yacht Club in the series for the Jones-Walters trophy yesterday afternoon in two hours, three minutes and 48 seconds. Though a little slow, on account of the poor wind, the race was an interesting one and was witnessed by a large number of delighted spectators.

The start was made from the club pier at 3:25. The wind was very light and was blowing about due east. It appeared doubtful if the race could be made in the two hour and 15 minute time limit, but it was decided to attempt it anyway.

At the start No. 67, Capt. B. H. Bridgers, was first across the line, followed by 68, Capt. J. VanB. Metts, and 78, Capt. E. A. Metts, in second and third positions.

On the run up to buoy No. 67 at first pulled away from the fleet, but was later almost picked up by 68. The upper buoy was rounded by 67 with 68 at her stern. On the run down 67 increased her lead slightly, while 71 drew up alongside of 68, but on the run down to Motts Channel buoy there was a slight change in position, though 67 led and 68 still held second position. These two boats continued to hold this position for the remainder of the race, except that once or twice 78 drew up about even with 68.

The official finish of the race was as follows:

No. 67, Capt. B. H. Bridgers, first; time 2:3:48.

No. 68, Capt. J. VanB. Metts, second, time 2:4:15.

No. 78, Capt. E. A. Metts, third; time 2:4:25.

No. 71, Capt. Wm. Peck, fourth; time 2:5:3.

No. 66, Capt. J. S. Brown, fifth; time 2:5:40.

No. 64, Capt. W. D. MacMillian, Jr., sixth; time 2:8:50.

No. 69, Capt. R. J. Rankin, Jr., seventh; time 2:12:38.

No. 75, Capt. Irving Corbett, eighth, time 2:14:2.

No. 65, Capt. P. W. Davis, ninth; time 2:24:50.

While slow on account of the very light wind, the race was a decidedly interesting one, from the fact that there was a difference of only 37 seconds in the time of the first three boats and also on account of the close fight between Nos. 68 and 78 for second place. Additional interest was lent the contest as 68 spurted near the finish and threatened to rob 67 of the victory.

FOSTER AGENCY ACTIVE

Number of Sales Have Been Made the Past Week—Edgewood Lots

Among the real estate sales made by the D. R. Foster agency during the past week are included six lots at Sixth and Meares streets, to P. Q. Moore from T. J. Gore, for a consideration of about $2,000; house and lot at 503 South Second street, to J. H. James from W. J. Reaves, for about $2,500; lot on Market, between 13th and 14th, 90x150 feet in size, to C. L. Dickinson from C. C. Chadbourn, for about $6,000; four houses and lots on Meares, between Third and Fourth streets, from C. C. Chadbourn to K. C. Sidbury; three lots on Eighth, between Meares and Marsteller streets, to T. J. McInneney, for $[illegible]00. The agency also purchased yesterday from Mr. C. S. Burnett, for a consideration of about $4,500, the major part of city block 9, bounded by Seventh and Eighth, Meares and Marsteller streets.

The following have purchased lots at Edgewood during the past few days: Messrs. I. K. Loftin R. A. Montgomery, J. T. Sholar, Harry Pyle, B. F. Brittain, Jr., H. K. King, W. M. Cumming, I. F. Congleton, L. C. Sidbury, L. S. Everett and Mrs. M. B. Voshall.

The development of the new sub-division is now going on rapidly and the property is looking especially attractive. The clearing and draining has about been completed and the artesian well and granolithic sidewalks will be started this week. The firm invites all interested parties to call by the office and take a trip over the property.

SHOOTING AFFAIR LAST NIGHT

Negro In Hospital With Two Bullet Holes As A Result

As the result of a shooting affair at Fourth and Davis streets last night about 11:30 o'clock, David Davis, colored, is at the James Walker Memorial Hospital with bullet holes in his right arm and side. Up to the hour of going to press the negro who did the shooting had not been located. It was stated at the hospital last night that it was impossible to determine just how seriously Davis was wounded, but that it was thought that his condition was not critical.

Mary Little, a colored woman, who witnessed the shooting, was unable to furnish the police with many details. She stated that she thought the negro who did the shooting was Wesley Sparks, and that the quarrel started over a woman. According to her story several other negroes assaulted Sparks and he pulled a revolver and fired on them, the bullets taking effect in Davis' body.

Death of Infant Son.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Littleton will have the sympathy of friends in the loss of their little son, Joseph H. Littleton, aged seven months, who passed away at the family residence, No. 804 South Third street, yesterday morning at 6 o'clock. The funeral wil be held from the residence this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. P. King, pastor of the Second Advent Church, will conduct the services. Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

KINSTON'S REVIEWERS' CLUB ENJOYS PICNIC.

Kinston, N. C., June 22.—In response to an invitation from their honorary member, Mrs. R. W. Wooten, the Reviewers' Club, a leading ladies' body of this city, with their husbands, drove and motored to Armenia church Thursday, and picnicked under the beautiful grove nearby. Many of the Kinston society folk were present, and Mrs. Wooten's hospitality received universal praise. The day was an ideal one. Attractive games had been prepared by the gracious hostess, and the guests heartily entered into the pleasant contests while raillery and wit ran riot.

REUNION OF EDGERTON FAMILY AT LEWISVILLE.

The following from yesterday's Winston-Salem Journal will be of interest to friends in this section:

"Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Edgerton and Mrs. J. N. Edgerton, of Goldsboro; Mrs. O. G. Gulley, of Wilmington, and Miss Ethel Edgerton, of Guilford College, were in the city yesterday, en route to Lewisville, where a reunion of the family of Mr. J. H. Edgerton, of Guilford College begins today, at the home of Dr. J. D. Williams. The party went from here in an automobile.

"There are in the family 14 brothers and sisters, who reside in widely scattered portions of the country. All will be present at the reunion, which is to last for a week or more. There are more than 40 grandchildren, and these will also be present.

"The total number in all, with the children and grandchildren, will probably reach 60. The following is a partial list of the children and their wives and husbands, with their children who will be present, besides those already mentioned: Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Edgerton and family, of Laurinburg; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Couch, of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Edgerton, of Guilford College; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Copeland, of Kinston; Miss Loraine Edgerton, of Florida; Mr and Mrs. J. T. Lashley, of Goldsboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Poindexter, of Winston-Salem.

"No fixed programme for the week has been arranged, the affair being strictly informal. A reunion of this kind, where there are so many, and where they are so widely scattered, is rarely held, and a great time is anticipated."

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

WRECK ON THE N. & S.

None of Passengers Injured—Cause of Accident Not Known.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Newbern, N. C., June 22.—While speeding toward Newbern this evening enroute from Norfolk, passenger train No. 1, of the Norfolk Southern Railway Company, was derailed near Vanceboro, N. C., and was delayed for several hours.

Just how the accident occurred could not be learned tonight. The engineer of the train stated that the first he knew of the accident that the tender of the engine was seen to have jumped the track. He promptly put on emergency brakes and brought the train to a standstill. But for this fact the loss of life would doubtless have been great as the train at the time was over a deep cut. The train was due in Newbern shortly after 5 o'clock and it did not arrive until about 9 o'clock.

SOME DELEGATES ARE BROKE.

Long Session of Convention Has Exhausted Their Funds.

Chicago, June 22.—The high cost of living—in Chicago, during convention week—has made itself felt with Republican delegations. Collections and subscriptions have been started by members of the National Committee and individuals to defray the expenses of those delegates on whose purses the extended session was telling.

Some of the delegates, it was learned, had planned to leave for home today, their funds having become so far depleted they were unable to remain longer.

New York, June 22.—Alton B. Parker, who has been picked by the arrangements committee of the Democratic convention for temporary chairman of the Baltimore convention, arrived in New York from Rochester today. He is working on his speech to be delivered in Baltimore, and denied himself to visitors. His secretary said that the judge would leave for Baltimore either tonight or tomorrow morning.

Judge Parker has made no comment on Mr. Bryan's opposition to him as temporary chairman.

OCEANIC'S FINE ORCHESTRA

Musical Organization Now Numbers Five Pieces and Each Is An Artist—Mrs. Ignatius Fried Is The Director

The Oceanic Hotel this season has one of the finest orchestras that has ever played at the popular hotel. It is not a very large orchestra, composed of only five pieces, but each member is an artist and the daily concerts have been heard with the greatest pleasure by guests of the hotel and others on the beach. The Sunday concerts promise to prove exceedingly popular. The first was given last Sunday afternoon and was attended by a large number. The programme rendered was of unusual excellence, but no more than might have been expected from a such quintette of artists.

The orchestra, composed entirely of young women, has as its director Mrs. Ignatius Fried, who is a violinist of wonderful talent that has been recognized both in the North and in the South. She is a descendant from a family of musicians. Her grandfather, Beruhard Eleasburg, was a fine violinist, and made it his aim to instill in his children that love for the best and purest in music that he himself had, with the result that true reverence and talent for the divine art were inherited not only by his children, but by his grandchildren. Mrs. Fried, who was before her marriage Miss Carolyn C. Cohn, was born at Selma, Ala., and her instruction in music was first begun there. After studying for years in Selma, her parents moved to Montgomery where she studied with Alexander DeCzelie, and then she left for New York city and finished her studies with the great Henry Schradieck. One of the highest honors accorded her was an offer of an engagement to play at the Paris exposition, and her name, which had already been frequently seen in the more exclusive musical publications, became known throughout New York and other parts of the country.

MRS. IGNATIUS FRIED.
Leader of the Oceanic Orchestra.

The following paragraphs are taken from an article describing a concert in which she took a prominent part in Mobile, Ala., where she formerly resided:

"Few but the active amateurs of the city had heard the witchery of Mrs. Fried's splendid violin, the mastery of a tiny hand that makes one marvel at its power and precise execution. Last night she held a brilliant audience that crowded Temperance Hall spellbound. Such applause as shook the venerable building has rarely been heard in all its years. And it was more than deserved—it was inevitable. The small, youthful violinist moved her bow with simple grace, her perfect hand and rounded arm perhaps being more noted than the firm, flexible pressure of her left hand fingers. The first notes under the strong but controlled bow waked sleepy curiosity into surprise. Then came wonders, delight and genuine admiration. Delicate passages were interpreted by the spirit of an artist, intricacies were attacked as a pastime and surmounted by a masterful method that showed no effort. There was perfect technique, absolute command of instrument and theme and a vigorous breadth of tone borne equally of admirable bowing and of a left hand literally astounding those who saw it, strength and unfailing precision. Above all, there was no faintest suggestion of effect playing.

"With all inducements the selection offered this surprising artist made no single tour de force. From first note to last it was pure violin mastery—simple artistic work. And with that last note came dead silence for one instance. Then it broke into a thunder of applause, spontaneous and long continued enough to be a true ovation—fairly earned and worthily rendered."

One of the strong features of the concerts at the Oceanic is the violin solos of Mrs. Fried. However, her splendid work does not detract one whit from the fine work of the other members of the orchestra, who also are artists in every sense of the word. Special mention should also be made of Mrs. Joe Haufman, the pianist, who is a highly accomplished musician and easily divides honors with the other members of the organization; also Miss Louise Love, another popular and talented member.

Manager Jesse N. Couch, of the hotel, has decided to give the Sunday concerts at 11 o'clock in the morning instead of in the afternoon. The programme as announced for this morning is as follows:

Verdi Aida—Grand March.
Lamps, "Little Boy Blue—Waltz.
Wieniawasky, Legende—Solo— Mrs. Fried.
Brahms, "Hungarian Dance"—No. 5.
Intermission.
Caryll, "The Pink Lady"—Selection.
Veil Moret, "After Vespers"—A Twilight Meditation.
Boltive, Reverie, Solo—Miss Louise Love.
Lincoln, "Salute to America"—March.

..Theatrical..

At the Grand.

Every day comments are heard about the perfect system of ventilation at the Grand. Especially during the heated spell of the past week was it practically demonstrated that the Grand management is well prepared to cope with any condition of weather. It is safe to venture the assertion that no theatre in the country is better equipped along this line, and even the theatres in the far South are not any better prepared to take care of their patrons during the hot season. For tomorrow the Grand will offer an Essanay production, "The Honeybug's First Quarrel," a sparkling light comedy with a snappy plot, good for a score of ringing laughs. Another topliner will be a Pathe picture entitled "The Fickle Soldier," relating the experiences of a soldier lover who becomes exposed to the wiles of another pretty girl. He is ordered back home only to find that his fiance has "gone with another man." In the meantime, the girl in the West has heard of his engagement back home and cuts him off. The ending is very sad, as he loses his life attempting to rescue a little girl from drowning.

CONTEST CASES MONDAY

Democratic Committee Ready to Begin Work at Baltimore

Baltimore, June 22.—Plans for the hearing on Monday by the Democratic National committee of contests for seats in the Democratic convention were completed today by members of the committee.

Death has reduced by one the number of contests. There will be no contest in the Sixth Louisiana district. In the same manner in which the contest was created it has been solved. The vacancy in the delegation was caused by the tragic death in Washington of Representative Robert C. Wickliffe, chosen to the Baltimore convention some time ago. A dispute arose as to which of the two alternates in the district was entitled to his seat here. Secretary Urey Woodson, of the National Democratic committee, has been informed that one of the alternates also has passed away.

Up to date the National Democratic committee has received notifications of contests affecting the entire delegations from the District of Columbia, Porto Rico, Vermont, the Philippines and Alaska. In addition rival claims have been made to the seats of the delegates from Illinois at large, the first 10 districts of that State and also the 12th. Other contests inaugurated are over three sents from Rhode Island, one seat in the Seventh and in the Ninth Pennsylvania districts and both seats in the Seventh and 16th districts.

The campaign of litographs almost ended seriously in the Emerson Hotel headquarters for many of the candidates. Ever since the Wilson managers monopolized one end of the balcony over the hotel lobby with an enor'likeness" of their candidate, each headquarters has sought to outdo the other by display of lithographs, portraits and banners. One zealous Clark supporter procured a 20-foot ladder and was about to paste a lithograph of the Missouri candidate far above that of any other candidate. Just as he was adjusting the stickers, down came the ladder, lithograph and man, all in a heap, among the startled politicians. No one was seriously injured.

Friends of of Mayor Gaynor have entered him in this lithograph contest. Last night about the time Chas. F. Murphy and his Tammany Hall followers arrived, Gaynor lithographs appeared everywhere about the lobby. A gigantic banner, necessarily hiding some of the multitudious pictures of other candidates was suspended in the lobby. It read: "Gaynor for President. A sure winner."

Did it ever occur to you that now is the future you longed for several years ago?

The three (dis) graces—filth, flies, and fever.

A "CURE"? FOR BALDNESS

The above expression is one which is used frequently in connection with hair preparations. Just exactly what is meant by it in each instance is a question. Baldness is not a disease and hence, does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably to be traced to the dandruff germ and if the condition has become chronic, that is, if there is complete atrophy of the hair follicles, a "cure" is absolutely impossible.

Approaching baldness, seen in falling hair, may always be checked and if the hair follicles are not atrophied the hair may be induced again to grow.

This is accomplished by regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide which cleanses the scalp and kills the dandruff germ. The destruction of the germ does away with the accumulations of scarf skin and thus eliminates the most common enemy to beautiful hair.

Soft, glossy, fluffy hair cannot grow on a scalp infested with dandruff any more than a delicate plant can grow on an ash heap. The scalp must be kept clean and free from dandruff. The best remedy for doing this is Newbro's Herpicide which receives the highest endorsements from professional men, the stage and the best people everywhere.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications obtained at all first-class barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., enclosing 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet.

Advocate of Roosevelt Wounded During Political Argument.

Evansville, Ind., June 22.—In an argument over Republican politics, here yesterday, Edward Ross, clerk at the Richmond Hotel, and an ardent Taft man, stabbed Charles Baker, a traveling man, of Boston, and a supporter of Roosevelt, and then made his escape.

Baker is reported mortally wounded, as he was stabbed above the heart.

CHARLOTTE OBSERVER SUIT.

Restraining Order Continued Until August 1st to Give Answer.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Greensboro, N. C., June 22.—By agreement of counsel the restraining order issued last Saturday upon petition of Ambrose E. Gonzales and Maj. J. C. Hemphill, preventing the collection of certain notes held by D. A. Tompkins, George Stephens and Ward H. Wood against Gonzales was continued until the counsel for the defendants may have time to prepare and file their pleadings. This must be done on or before the first Monday in August. Messrs. Gonzales and Hemphill also ask that a receiver be appointed to look after the assets of The Observer Co., since the alleged formation of a partnership between the plaintiffs and defendants.

You can do in a second what it takes years to get over regretting.

COTTON GOES UP AND DOWN

An Early Decline in the Market Was Followed by Recovery—Close Was Firm, Unchanged to 4 Points Lower.

New York, June 22.—An early decline in the cotton market was followed by nearly a full recovery today with the close firm, net unchanged to four points lower. The market opened at a decline of 2 to 5 points, which was about in line with the cables. There seemed to be very little for sale right after the call and prices rallied 2 or 3 points during the first few minutes on scattered covering. Weather conditions in the South were considered very favorable, however, and following reports that a prominent cotton seed oil interest estimated that the acreage planted to cotton this year would be only 1 per cent. less than last season, offerings became heavier. Prices eased off in consequence, with some scattering liquidation of July adding to the unsettled appearance of the market. At 11:40 for October and 11.52 for December, or about 8 to 9 points under the closing figures of yesterday, the market reached resting orders. This demand checked the decline and as soon as the tone steadied prices began to rally on covering for over the week-end. The close was within a point or two of the best.

Receipts for the day 2,106 bales, against 5,207 last week, and 876 last year. Today's receipts at Galveston 456 bales against 159 last year; at New Orleans 794 bales against 167 last year, and at Houston 97 bales against 740 last year.

Spot closed quiet. Middling uplands, 12.65; middling gulf, 11.90. No sales.

Cotton futures closed firm.

The fancy of society women for perfumes and especially for attar of roses has sent up the prices to the highest on record. Attar of roses, which is extremely rare and is perhaps the most valuable perfume in the market now is commanding almost a prohibitive price. Despite the cost, however, the whim of women has taken to that as the rarest and most delicate of perfumes. Dealers in Fifth avenue, New York, say they have the greatest difficulty in obtaining enough to supply the orders of their customers.

From the Buenos Ayres Standard: "Wanted, situation as plain cook; no objection to doing a litle plain cooking." Evidently a very accommodating person.—Boston Transcript.

STOCKS DULLEST IN YEARS

Yesterday's Market Was Practically Stagnant, Affairs at Chicago Excluding All Matters—Price Changes Nominal

New York, June 22.—For complete and utter stagnation today's two-hour session on the stock exchange has not been exceeded in some years. Attendance of members was unusually light. Affairs at Chicago again engrossed the exclusion of all other matters. Trading in the first hour amounted to scarcely 35,000 shares and the total for the session was 81,000. Price changes in the speculative favorites were nominal but with a downward tendency. Various issues were not quoted at all.

The bond market was steady with total sales par value of $987,000.

Panama threes lost 1-8 per cent on call on the week.

NEGROES APPEAL FOR HELP

Delegates Declare They Have Been Threatened, but Remain Firm

(Baltimore Sun).

Chicago, June 21.—The negro delegates from the South who are for President Taft issued a statement to the other Republican delegates to the convention last night in the course of which they said:

"A shameful situation has arisen which affects the honor and integrity of every negro delegate who in this hour of bears on his shoulders the good name of his race. The present political situation means to them more than the nomination of a presidential candidate, more than every principle of republican government itself. Upon them rests the burden and they are face to face with the crucial trial.

"And without exception they have met the exigencies bravely and fearlessly. Yet in spite of persuasion and the cajoling methods of politically wise and wily managers of the third term aspirant, they have stood to their guns without fear or favor. They have resisted offers of money, of favors and political positions, and have stood faithfully to their instructions. They have been led to the mountain tops and shown the world beneath and have turned away.

"They are now standing under the fire of threats against themselves and families upon their return home. In spite of this they have met the issue; and now in this crisis which with you they are facing they call upon the loyal Republicans for help. They ask that their example be encouraged. They have refused the material things and are standing for the material things, integrity, and glory of their race.

"In view of these facts, in view of the effort being made to disrupt the Republican party, to strike at the very foundations of the Constitution itself, we, the united colored delegation from the South, appeal to you loyal Republicans of the North for help. We pray that you give us the courage that comes from the knowledge that we all, black or white, are carrying out our instructions, that we cannot reach the goal with promises, terrified with threats or bribed with money to barter our manhood and to besmirch our integrity."

TO BALTIMORE CONVENTION.

Col. Dortch and Friends Making the Trip in an Automobile.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Goldsboro, N. C., June 22.—Col. W. T. Dortch, delegate to the National Democratic Convention, left here yesterday afternoon in an automobile for Baltimore, accompanied by Messrs. John D. Langston and H. M. Allen, two other members of the Goldsboro bar. The party will go by Richmond, Va., and expect to reach Baltimore Sunday.

A large number of Goldsboro people went down to Seven Springs last night to the opening dance at the Seven Springs Hotel, returning early this morning. One of the automobile parties had a very serious accident on the return trip during the night. When they had gotten within a mile of town about 1 o'clock this morning, the machine ran into a ditch on the side of the road and threw every member of the party out, except Mr. Leslie Yelverton, who was driving and his hold on the steering wheel saved him. Mr. Griff Porter was caught under the machine and it was some little time before he could be extricated and it was feared that he was seriously hurt. The ambulance was hurried to the scene, but the physician found no bones broken, but both knees were badly bruised and skinned up.

The other members of the party were Messrs. Geo. Freeman, Gaston Dortch, Carl E. Stanley, all of whom got hard falls, but were not injured in any way.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Something Interesting.

A Remanufactured typewriter is not a second-hand typewriter. To remanufacture a typewriter means that it is made new throughout. All worn parts are replaced by new parts, and the machine is made new. A second-hand typewriter is one that has been used and has not had the old worn parts replaced by new ones. Remanufactured typewriters are practically new machines, and our faith in them enables us to give you the same guarantee the manufacturer gives. This should convince you that they are as good as those you pay from $100 to $125 for, and we save you from 25 per cent to 50 per cent.

UNDERWOODS $40.00 AND UP.

Place the difference to your credit in the bank. We also sell the Remington, Monarch, Smith Premier and others at equally attractive prices. Come and see our stock. IT WILL PAY YOU.

that you, not we, are making the record. And we refuse to be bound by it. We have pleaded with you 10 days. We have fought with you five days for a 'square deal.' We fight no more. We plead no longer. We shall sit in protest and the people who sent us here shall judge us."

Mr. Allen read the following address from Colonel Roosevelt:

"A clear majority of the delegates honestly elected to this convention were chosen by the people to nominate me. Under the direction and with the encouragement of Mr. Taft the majority of the National Committee—by the so-called 'steam roller' methods, and with scandalous disregard to every principle of elementary honesty and decency, stole 80 or 90 delegates, putting on the temporary roll call a sufficient number of fraudulent delegates to defeat the legally expressed will of the people, and to substitute a dishonest for an honest majority.

"The convention has now declined to purge the roll of the fraudulent delegates themselves, who all sat as judges on one another's cases. If these fraudulent votes had not thus been cast and counted the convention would have been purged of their presence. This action made the convention in no proper sense any longer Republican convention, representing the real Republican party. Therefore, I hope the men elected as Roosevelt delegates will now decline to vote on any matter before the convention. I do not release any delegate from his honorable obligation to vote for me if he votes at all, but under the actual conditions I hope that he will not vote at all.

"The convention as now composed has no right to represent the voters of the Republican party. It represents nothing but fraud in overriding the will of the rank and file of the party. Any man nominated by the convention as now constituted will be merely the beneficiary of this successful fraud; it would be deeply discreditable to any man to accept the convention's nomination under these circumstances and any man thus accepting it would have no claim to the support of any Republican on party grounds, and would have forfeited the right to ask the support of any honest man of any party on moral grounds.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Statement From Taft

Washington, June 22.—President Taft tonight made the following statement:

"A National convention of one of the great parties is ordinarily important only as a preliminary to a National campaign for the election of a President. The Chicago convention just ended is much more than this and is in itself the end of a pre-convention campaign presenting a crisis more threatening and issue more important than those of the election campaign which is to follow between the two great National parties. The question here at stake was whether the Republican party was to change its attitude as the chief conservator in the nation of constitutional representative government and was to weaken the constitutional guaranties of life, liberty and property and all other rights declared sacred in the bill of rights, by abandoning the principle of the absolute independence of the judiciary essential to the maintenance of those rights.

"The campaign carried on to seize the Republican party and make it the instrument of reckless ambition and the unsettling of the fundamental principles of our government was so sudden and unexpected that time was not given clearly to show to the people and the party the dangers which confronted them. It was sought to break the wise and valuable tradition against giving more than two terms to any one man in the Presidency and the danger from its breach could not be measured. The importance of the great victory which has been achieved cannot be over-estimated. All over this country patriotic people tonight are breathing more freely that a most serious menace to our Republican institutions has been averted.

"It is not necessary tonight to speak of the result in November or of the issues which will arise between the Republican and Democratic parties in the Presidential campaign to follow. It will be time enough to do that after the action of the Baltimore convention. It is enough now to say whatever may happen in November, a great victory for the Republican party and the United States has already been won. The party remains as a great powerful organization for carrying out its patriotic principles as an agency of real progress in the development of the Nation along the constitutional lines upon which it was constructed and has ever been maintained; and its future opportunity for usefulness is as great as its achievements in the past."

The Platform Adopted.

Chicago, June 22.—The platform adopted by the Republican convention today re-affirms the belief of the party in the protective tariff and declares that the present high cost of living is "not due to the protective tariff system, as evidenced by the existence of similar conditions in countries which have a tariff policy different from our own."

It declares the party's unchanging faith in government of the people, for the people, and by the people," expressing its venerations for the name of Abraham Lincoln, "whose lofty principles and superb devotion to his country are an inspiration to the party he honored."

It expresses its belief in "our self-controlled representative democracy which is a government of laws, not of men and in which order is the prerequisite of progress."

"The Republican party," it says, "is prepared to go forward with the solution of those new questions which social, economic and political developments have been brought into the forefront of the Nation's interest. It will strive to enact the necessary legislation to safeguard the public, health, to limit effectively the labor of women and children, to protect wage earners engaged in dangerous occupations, to enact comprehensive and generous workmen's compensation laws in place of the present wasteful and unjust system of employers' liability, and in all possible ways to satisfy the just demand of the people for the study and solution of the complex and constantly changing problems of social welfare.

"In dealing with these questions," says the platform, "it is important that the rights of every individual to the freest possible development of his own powers and resources, and to the control of his own justly acquired property, as far as those are compatible with the rights of others shall not be interfered with or destroyed.

"The authority and integrity of the courts, both State and Federal, must be upheld," the platform adds, but it declares in favor of "legislation to prevent long delays and the tedious and costly appeals which have so often amounted to a denial of justice in civil cases and to a failure to protect the public at large in criminal cases.

It declares the recall of judges "unnecessary and unwise," yet favors "such action as may be necessary to simplify the process by which any judge who is found to be derelict in his duty may be removed from office. It favors the peaceful settlement of international disputes and reference of controversies between nations to an international court of justice.

"The Republican party is opposed to special privilege and monopoly," says the platform, pointing to the enactment of the inter-State commerce act and of the anti-trust act. It favors the "enactment of legislation supplementary to the existing antitrust law which will define as criminal offenses those specific acts that uniformly mark attempts to restrain and to monopolize trade."

"The Republican tariff policy," declares the platform, "has been of the greatest benefit to the country, developing our resources, diversifying our industries and protecting our workmen against competition with cheaper labor abroad."

"Some of the existing import duties," it continues, "are too high and should be reduced. To accomplish this, correct information is indispensable. This information can best be obtained by an expert commission, as the large volume of useful facts contained in the recent reports of the Tariff Board have demonstrated."

As to the high cost of living the platform declared that the party will support a "prompt scientific inquiry into the causes which are operative, both in the United States and elsewhere, to increase the cost of living," and that when these facts are known the necessary steps will be taken to reduce high prices.

The platform declares for the "progressive development of our banking and currency system."

"It is of great importance," it continues, "to the social and economic welfare of this country that its farmers have facilities for borrowing easily and cheaply the money they need to increase the productivity of their land. It is important that the financial machinery be provided to supply the demand of farmers for credit as it is that the banking and currency systems be reformed in the interest of general business. Therefore, we recommend the passage of State and Federal laws for the establishment and capable supervision of organizations having for another purpose the loaning of funds to farmers."

The platform would "prohibit corporations from contributing to campaign funds; favors a continuance of the present conservation policy, and the establishment of a parcels post; approves the action of President Taft and of Congress in abrogating the treaty with Russia."

It declares for the "maintenance of an adequate navy;" for a strong American merchant marine; for a liberal and systematic policy for the improvements of rivers and harbors; for a liberal Federal contributions to the work of preventing further floods along the Mississippi and for a continuance of the reclamation policy."

It favors developing Alaska's resources and the leasing of the coal lands there "on such terms as will invite development and provide fuel for the navy and the commerce of the Pacific ocean."

Laws to give relief from "the constantly growing evil of induced and undesirable immigration which is inimical to the progress and welfare of the United States" are recommended.

FAIRMONT VICTORIOUS.

Defeated Fair Bluff by the Score of Seven to Five.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Fairmont, N. C., June 22.—In a rather poor game of ball today Fairmont won from Fair Bluff by a score of 7 to 5. In the last half of the eighth inning the game was called on account of rain. Features of the game was the pitching of Thompson and double play made by Jones, Kyle and Thompson of Fairmont, and by Rogers and Johnson, of Fair Bluff.

Washington, June 22.—Secretary Meyer, who left Washington a week ago for his home at Hamilton, Mass., has developed typhoid fever. A message to that effect was received today at the Navy Department.

When the Secretary left it was said he was suffering from a stomach trouble.

TEDDY'S CHOHORTS START NEW PARTY

its discreditable career here in Chicago represents a neglible minimum of the rank and file of the Republican party. But what it has done and what it has provided for the future offer material for very serious consideration..

"The vicious circle must be broken. The powerful crooked political bosses have and ought to have no feeling but contempt for the honest men who submit to their violent and unscrpulous dishonesty. If we permit fraud of this kind to triumph we do a shameful thing and show that we are either faint at heart or dull of conscience.

"I hold that we are performing a high duty in inaugurating this movement for the permanent success of practices such as have obtained in the fraudulent convention that has just finished its sittings would mean the downfall of this republic, and we are performing the most patriotic of duties when we set our faces like flint against such wrong."

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Miss Ethel, Kermit and Archie arrived early and occupied a box near the stage.

When the hall had been packed the entire audience rose and joined in singing, "America," after which the Roosevelt delegates greeted Governor Johnson as he opened the formal part of the meeting.

The Governor's speech was interrupted with a wild gust of cheering.

"We came here with the mandate of the people of California. You came here with the like design—to carry out not the will of a rotten boss in Pennsylvania or a crooked one in New York, or a United States Senator in Massachusetts, but to carry out the mandate of the people to nominate Theodore Roosevelt.

"By a fraud he has been robbed of that which was his. We, the delegates, free and untrammeled have come here to nominate him tonight."

These words brought the great audience to its feet with a shout and for some time there was an unroar of applause.

The time has passed when men can foist by chicanery or unfair means a candidate upon the people whom they don't want," declared Governor Johnson. "So we have come here tonight to right a wrong and just as certain as we are here tonight the people will rule."

Governor Johnson described the campaign of Col. Roosevelt against the bosses and declared that the delegates assembled propose "to see Mr. Roosevelt gets his reward."

He then introduced Senator Clapp.

Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, read the resolution nominating Col. Roosevelt. It was adopted with a cheer.

Mr. Prendergast then made the nominating speech.

"I second the resolution presented by the courageous Senator from Minnesota." This was a signal for a rousing demonstration for Senator Clapp.

"We place him in nomination tonight —we people of the United States—the sovereign voters of this land will elect him in November," Mr. Prendergast concluded.

Dean Lewis followed Mr. Prendergast, seconding the nomination of Col. Roosevelt.

Col. Roosevelt was escorted to the hall by the notification committee, accompanied by Senator Dixon and Governor Stubbs, of Kansas. As the colonel entered the hall there was a storm of applause. The people leaped to their feet with a shout and for five minutes there was pandemonium.

Col. Roosevelt mounted the platform and waved his hands, smiling with delight at the reception. When he says he would accept the nomination there was another frenzied demonstration.

The colonel expressed his gratification to the delegates who stood by him.

When Col. Roosevelt concluded there was a wild rush for the platform and a score of men scrambled for the leaves of the colonel's manuscript where he had dropped them. The cheers almost drowned out the blare of the band which valorously continued to play, "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Governor Johnson dismissed the meeting after calling upon the delegates to meet tomorrow afternoon.

"I know it is Sunday," he said, "but our work is holy work."

Coats of white serge cloth with scalloped edges are fashionable for little girls.

OUTLINES

Taft and Sherman were renominated by the Republican convention last night, the former receiving 561 votes and the latter 597, the Roosevelt forces not participating in the convention.

Col. Roosevelt was nominated on an independent ticket last night, many of his followers pledging their allegiance to him and representatives of 22 States standing sponsors for the movement. Temporary organization was effected and the organization of the new party throughout the country will be pushed forward.

Hope of averting a fight at the Democratic convention at Baltimore was given up yesterday with the simultaneous announcements of Governor Wilson sustaining Bryan's contention for a convention of progressives and by Chairman Mack that the National Committee would make Alton B. Parker temporary chairman.

In his speech accepting the nomination of the independent Republicans yesterday Theodore Roosevelt asked his followers to return to their homes and ascertain the wishes of their constituency as regard a new party movement and then the organization would be perfected.

Plans for the hearing on Monday by the Democratic National Committee of contests for seats in the National convention were completed yesterday by members of the committee.

Wm. J. Bryan will actively oppose the naming of Alton B. Parker as temporary chairman of the Democratic convention, regardless of results and it was reported yesterday he might bolt the party.

PROBABLY BE CAM MORRISON.

Will Get Chairmanship State Executive Committee if He Wants It.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 22.—The principal business that is to come before the North Carolina State Democratic executive committee, called for this city July 1st, will be the election of a State chairman to succeed Hon. A. H. Eller, of Winston-Salem. Mr. Eller is not to stand for re-election, and the chairmanship seems to be between Hon. Clyde Hoey, of Shelby, who is especially urged by Congressman E. Y. Webb, and Hon. Cameron Morrison, of Charlotte. The impression is strong here that if Morrison really wants the chairmanship he will be elected. Both are staunch Democrats and both ardent supporters of Senator Simmons for retention as United States Senator, but Mr. Morrison is the more experienced and better known in State-wide politics, his friends insist. Mr. Morrison led the successful fight in the recent State convention for the Simmons forces in the "Simmons endorsement" contest for endorsing the record of the North Carolina delegation in Congress.

A charter was issued today for the Farmers' Union Exchange, Inc., Hendersonville, capital $100,000 authorized and $300 subscribed by J. S. Jones, R. M. Pryor and others, for general mercantile and farmers' supply business.

Doberitz, Germany, June 22.—Another army aviator was killed here yesterday evening. Lieut. Von Falkenhayn, of the German army, after making a flight on the military aerodrome, attempted to land, but made a false movement with one of the levers, which caused him to dash to the ground with great force. The machine was wrecked and the body of the aviator was found among the debris.

TYPHOID AND THE TITANIC

Last Year Over 1,500 Died In North Carolina from Typhoid

Last April over fifteen hundred people perished on the Titanic. The news of this, the greatest ocean catastrophe of the age, shocked the world. The worst feature of it all was that it might have easily been avoided had the captain of the ill-fated vessel heeded the warning of danger ahead, or if sufficient lifeboats had been provided. After the catastrophe the United States Congress rushed a special investigating committee to New York, which met the rescuing ship with her load of survivors and conducted an investigation immediately. This committee fully investigated the cause of the disaster and made a voluminous report, including recommendations regarding the equipment of sea-going vessels, their lines of travel, and many other things. It has even been recommended that certain international legislation be made regulating ocean traffic.

Now, all of this is very good and much to the point, but last year over fifteen hundred North Carolinians died of typhoid fever, and twenty thousand others suffered from this disease. The greater part of this awful loss might have been averted in our cities if our city authorities had heeded the many timely warnings of health officers and sanitarians and provided an unquestionably pure public water supply, and if they had passed and enforced ordinances requiring the sale of equally pure milk, and other ordinances directed against the flies and filth. Likewise, much of it could have been averted in the country if the people there had been equally careful in regard to their water and milk and flies. But did they do it? Vital statistics reports of the various towns in the State show where they did and where they did not. No vital statistics, however, are available for the rural districts of North Carolina. Did Congress appoint an investigating committee to determine the cause of this fearful loss of life and to make recommendations? Will the coming Legislature make an investigation of the matter? Did your own local county officials or city council ever consider the matter? Very few have. Why? Are our own citizens and brethren of so much less value and importance than the passengers on the Titanic? No. The reason is simply this: The Titanic disaster was spectacular and unusual. The continued loss from typhoid is neither unusual nor spectacular. We have become accustomed to it. We used to think that such things had to be, that they were unpreventable, but now we know that they are preventable. It will be only a matter of a few years until the public will learn that for every case or death from typhoid some one is responsible. It may be your city officials for not providing pure water and pure milk and for not suppressing flies. It may be your doctor for not properly reporting to the health officer or for not giving proper instructions for the care of a case of the disease. You yourself may be guilty for gross ignorance or carelessness or gross neglect. Whoever it may be, rest assured that some one is responsible, and the sooner we begin to impress this fact upon those in authority the less typhoid we will have.

WHERE THE OLD PIANOS GO

Far-Away Markets Found For Those Taken In Trade

(Baltimore Sun).

What becomes of all the old pianos? Thousands of new pianos are sold every year to the greater number of those who already have old musical instruments. The salesman allows a liberal price for the old piano in trade, accepts a little cash, and takes the balance on monthly payments. Now, while he has sold one piano he has just as many on his hands as before, for he has accepted an old one. What becomes of it? He does not care to sell it to some one who has never had a piano if he can avoid it, for if the process of trading continued he would soon be following himself around in a circle and there are no dividends in that. He must find a market for the old musical instrument. To do this he repairs and revarnishes the old piano, boxes it, and, with hundreds of others, it is shipped to South America, Africa, Asia and other benighted portions of the world, where it is sold to the natives, who yearn for music and whose ambition is to drum out tunes on an instrument of their own. These pianos are sold for a small amount down and the balance in monthly, sometimes weekly payments extended over a long period of time. In this way the dealer gets back not only the price he allows for the old piano in the first place, but the cost of repairing, boxing and shipping, with interest added to each of the charges.

The export of electrical apparatus in 1911 reached the enormous figure of $19,355,536, considerably in excess of other figures in recent years.

FEDERAL MEAT INSPECTION

In Interest of the Packers and Not Protection of Public

A few months ago attention was called to the fact that the borax trust and other interests unfriendly to Dr. Wiley, in criticising the ex-chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, took occasion to laud the Bureau of Animal Industry. The latter bureau has charge of examining the meat supplies of the country, and the argument of the anti-Wiley forces was that, while the Bureau of Chemistry has had a somewhat stormy career, the Bureau of Animal Industry was conducted "without friction." It was suggested at the time that any department of government service, supposed to be operated in the interest of the public, which got along "without friction" was to be viewed with suspicion. Recent developments seem to The Journal of the American Medical Association to point to the source of the lubricant which has permitted the Bureau of Animal Industry to operate without friction developing between themselves and the vested interests concerned. The Bureau of Chemistry has, it is true, been much criticised in the last four or five years—but the criticisms have come not from the consumers, but from the manufacturers. Now the Bureau of Animal Industry is coming in for its share of criticism, but with this difference, that representatives of the consumer and not of the packing houses are the critics. Charges have been made by competent and unbiased observers that the federal meat inspection laws are administered in the interest of the packers rather than for the protection of the public, and that meat that would not be accepted at the ports of entry in Europe is passed by the federal meat inspectors for home consumption. As might be expected, the investigation of the Bureau of Animal Industry exhibits Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe "running to form" as special pleaders for the "interests." The enormous harm done to the health of the American people through the maladministration of the Food and Drugs Act and the federal meat inspection law can hardly be estimated. The responsibility for it rests on Secretary Wilson and Solicitor McCabe, whose incompetency—or something else—has rendered the enforcement of these laws a joke.—Journal American Medical Association.

THE CHORUS GIRL FAMINE.

Next Season Will Abound in Musical Pieces—Few Last Year.

La, la—as sure as June rolls around, theatrical managers who are interested in musical productions, begin to spend sleepless nights in thinking of ways and means to overcome the usual chorus girl famine, which arrives at this season of the year.

On Labor Day, New York City will see 14 new musical shows bidding for public favor. It is obvious, therefore, that next season will abound in musical pieces by contrast with that of the season 1911-12, in which there were comparatively few. Of these few, the majority were of particularly poor quality and exceedingly ruinous to producers and "angels". With the managers complaining of the dearth of chorus girls, here is a chance, or rather here are numerous chances, for stage-struck young women.

On Monday, June 24, on the stage of the Hudson Theatre, Mr. William Harris will have a voice trial, to which he has invited every girl in America who is desirous of going on the stage, who possesses a good voice and a comely face.

One hundred girls are to be used in the new musical comedy which Rennold Wolf and Channing Pollock are writing, that is to serve Clifton Crawford as a starring vehicle next season. Two hundred girls are to be used in the different "Quaker Girl" companies that are to be sent out on tour.

Mr. Harris, emulating the example of the baseball magnates, has a chorus girl scout out touring the small towns, looking for promising material. He is calling on local vocal teachers, and getting from them a list of names of what they consider their best pupils. These young women are visited, and offers made to them to come to New York and take up musical comedy work.

The awful list of injuries on a Fourth of July staggers humanity. Set over against it, however, is the wonderful healing by Bucklen's Arnica Salve, of thousands, who suffered from burns, cuts, bruises, bullet wounds or explosions. GOSSIP OF FOREIGN CAPITALS

Rhodes Scholars at Oxford to Attend Olympic Games—To Study Origin Pre-historic Re Mains On Easter Island

London, June 22.—At least half of the Rhodes scholars at Oxford will journey to Stockholm for the Olympic games. It was expected that more would go, but reports of the heavy admission and hotel charges deterred most of the students who are dependent entirely on the Rhodes fund for their support. Lange, of Oklahoma, and Zeigler, of Iowa, have been in active training, and they may appear at Stockholm as members of the American team. Lange has been sprinting in good time lately, and he hopes to regain his old-time form in the high jump. Zeigler is easily the superior of any of the English college weight men, and he may prove a valuable second string man for the American team.

The "Mana", a motor auxiliary yacht just launched at Whitstable, is to carry an expedition to the South Seas to investigate the origin of the gigantic prehistoric remains of Easter Island. This island, the most easterly of the Polynesion group, is a lonely dot of land, 45 miles in area, 2,000 miles from the South American coast. Facing the sea on the island are enormous platforms made of uncemented stones, some of which weigh five tons. Some of the sea walls are 30 feet high and 200 feet long. On the land side are broad terraces, also of stone, bearing pedestals on which formerly stood huge figures carved from lava. Most of these images have been thrown down, but there are 555 of them on the island. One is 68 feet high, with a nose 11 feet long. The figures all extend from head to hips, with receding foreheads, broad noses, thin lips and powerful chins. There is no metal on the island, and the only tool found was a prehistoric chisel, with which it would seem impossible to execute such colossal works. Moreover, the island with its scanty water supply could not have supported enough people to drag the figures from the quarry where they were made to the platforms. Some of the statues weigh 250 tons.

There is every evidence that some great calamity overtook the island and

THOUGHTS FOR THE DAY

By T. W. C.

The highest victories are not obtained by force.

* * * *

A politician—one that would circumvent God.—Shakespeare.

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.—Jefferson. This is especially true in regard to religious liberty.

Some people could not feel more at home in this world, even if they knew they were to live here forever.

A man should be as careful about shooting with his tongue as with his gun. The wounds of both are deadly.

Probably our duties are as often forgotten as neglected. We all need to be reminded of our duties.

One sweetly solemn thought comes to me o'er and o'er, I am nearer my home today than ever I've been before. —Phoebe Cary.

A criticism is often more valuable than a compliment, and a good deal harder to give, and not nearly so gratefully received.

Pride, impatience and self-will have caused the ruin of more lives than any other sins.

The man who has a guilty conscience doesn't need any argument to convince him that there is a hell—he's been there.

When we have repented of a thing, the best way to prove it is to quit the thing that was the occasion of our repentance.

Sorry for the past amounts to little if it does not make the future better.

The greater portion of the world's piety is not advertised; and many of the world's best workers are unknown. The judgment day will be their day.

Introspection will take the starch out of the greatest egotist. All one has to do is to know himself, to know that he is both frail and finite.

The best compliment to a sensible woman is to treat her as though she had sense. Sensible people ought to talk sense.

Study the habit of delight in God. This is a most valuable law of life. It gets out of our way all unrepented sin, all hindrances to fellowship and communion. "The joy of the Lord is our strength."

The talk of "reconstructing religion" is really blasphemous. For the first thing which would have to be reconstructed is God. And He is changeless forever.

The victories of our religion have ever been won by faith and not by charity. Humanitarianism is not religion and the second commandment must never be given the first place.

One of the characteristics of youth is to be too sure that it knows everything. Christian humility is a virtue some of you Christians forget, and this lack mars their usefulness. As one witty modern writer has said, "The greatest gain of age is to have lost the wisdom of youth."

Everything fights against a man who is not on God's side; while he who does right, not because it is profitable, but because it is right who loves the truth ,arms himself with God's power —the universe on his side.—F. W. Robertson.

Faith is the secret of joy because it begets comfort. If we are in trouble and a friend tries to console us, his words are a mockery unless we believe in him. He may be sincere, but if we doubt his sincerity we destroy the benefit of his sympathy. Just so, the promises of God are valid only to him who believes. If one's heart is breaking and he reads, "Let not your heart be troubled," the comfort will depend on whether he is a doubter or believer.—Rev. R. S. Smith.

Memory is one of the most wonderful possessions of man. It has been called "the mind's magnetic telegraph," "the museum of the mind, where are deposited the rare, the costly, the beautiful, to be exhibited as occasion may require;" "the mysterious power which calls up former joys and sorrows and bids them live again."

'Happy memories ought to be the possession of all, but possibly there are happy and sad ones in every life. Some may be able to say:

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood,
When fond recollections bring them to view."

We should be laying up in store for coming years happy memories of our lives. Men under deep conviction of sin have often suffered the lashing of conscience by the memory of past transgressions. Confessions of crime have often been made because memory recalled the deeds of long years before.

Not only should we preserve happy memories of ourselves, but we should cherish those of others.

A new mail pouch catcher for moving trains uses a chain net as less injurious to the contents of pouches than the generally used steel rods.

The sale of the third part of the Hoe library brought the total amount realized to $1,669,132. Two sections of the library still remain to be sold.

Man Coughs and Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man of Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found twe ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonsful ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs, expels stubborn colds or heals weak, sore lungs. "I feel sure it's a Godsend to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo., "for I believe I would have consumption today if I had not used this great remedy." It's guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50-cent or $1.00 size at R. R. Bellamy.

RAILWAY WAGES IN U. S.

Comparison With Principal Countries of Europe and Cost of Living.

The Bureau of Railway Economics has completed the second of its comparative studies of railway conditions in the United States and the principal countries of Europe. This relates to the wages paid railway employes and the cost of living, and is based on the latest years for which comparative data are avaiable.

The average daily compensation of railway employes of all classes for the year 1910 was in the United States, $2.23; in the United Kingdom, $1.05; excluding supplementary allowances negligibly affecting the average, it was in Prussia-Hesse 81 cents, and in Austria 89 cents. The lowest paid railway employe in the United States, the ordinary trackmen, receives a greater compensation than many of the railway employes of France, even those of higher grades and with responsible duties. The compensation of railway employes is from two to three times as high in the United States as in Italy.

A recent report of the English Board of Trade on railway wages shows that the average weekly pay of enginemen in the United Kingdom in 1907 was $11.17; of firemen, $6.67. In the same year enginemen on American railways received an average weekly compensation of $25.80, counting six days to the week, and firemen $15.24. Recent returns make it clear that in 1912 enginemen and firemen in the United States are compensated at rates of pay for specific runs that are two, three and four times as high as the corresponding rates on representative English railways. The annual compensation of enginemen in the United States as reported by two representative railway companies, now ranges from $1,100 is switchisg service to over $2,800 in passenger service, and of firemen from $700 in switching service to over $1,700 in passesger service.

For Continental Europe official returns in requisite detail are not available for a later year than 1908. The salaries and allowances of the typical engineman in Germany amounted for that year to $646.88; in Austria to $870.80; of a fireman in Germany to $424.59; in Austria to $532.03. The annual compensation of enginemen on two of the principal railways of France ranged in 1908 from $505.66 to $906.91, and of firemen from $324.24 to $595.98. In Italy enginemen received in 1908, salary and allowances included, from $581.10 to $812.70 a year; firemen, from $330.30 to $475.05 a year. In these Continental countries the maximum compensation is received only after many years of service.

In Belgium enginemen received in 1907 from $23.16 to $38.60 a month; firemen, from $17.37 to $23.16 a month; conductors and station employes, from 46 cents to 96 cents a day. In the United States, in the same year, 1907, enginemen averaged, on the basis of 25 days' service, $107.50 a month; firemen, $63.50 a month; conductors, $3.69 a day; station employes, from $1.78 to $2.05 a day.

The rental of a three or four room house or flat is almost as high in Berlin, Paris, or London as throughout the United States, but in England and on the Continent it generally runs from $30 to $90 a year less. The quantity of food and fuel estimated by the Board of Trade of England as the standard consumption of a typical workingman's family costs in the United States 17.8 per cent. more than in France or in Germany; 35.3 per cent. more than in Belgium, and 38 per cent. more than in the United Kingdom.

It is well within the truth to estimate in a broad and general way that while the cost of living of a railway employe in the United States is less than 50 per cent. higher than that of a corresponding employe in the United Kingdom or on the Continent, his compensation averages over twice as great.

Day of the Suffragette

Being an old maid lawyer's plant to the office boy, in the days of the suffragette:

"You pain me by ignoring my request to have your shoe laces pressed so they form nice bows. Run fresh ribbon in the waste basket, and put these flowers on the window ledge for an hour of sunshine.

Now, Johnnie, do straighten that crochet tidy, and place the books in artistic disarray over the table; I have often told you not to stack them up, so. Arrange the couch pillows, and dust my great-grandmother's photograph there. Let the whole room present an irresistibly charming and homelike atmosphere.

And Johnnie, each day, while I am going through my mail, I wish you to sit here in the outside office, and whistle to the canary, thus encouraging him to sing.

Don't, I beg you, ever appear to be busy when anyone chances to come in. It do not think it is good form.

Now, if I should ever be out when anyone calls to see me, if you see them coming in time, arrange my sewing and my thimble and needle as if I had carelessly dropped it onto the stand, and take a fresh rose out of the case and place beside it; then when the visitor enters, mind you, tell him that I have gone out to pay some calls. I never wish a caller to find me engaged on my clients' business, that is why I always keep that which I am working on in my private room, instead of bringing it here where it is more pleasant.

There is something so commoplace and matter-of-fact about having to transact mere business, and having to bring the mind down from airy flights to the contemplation of dollars and cents, and all the tribulations thereby occasioned

I have my first divorce case today: Ah, the poor dear, as soon as she stated her business I fell weeping on her neck, and after we had calmed ourselves somewhat I made her lie on the couch while I lighted the alcohol blaze and fixed her some tea with a little spirits in it—not that I would have it become public for anything that I keep spirits, and, of course, no one would ever think for a moment—What say, Johnny? Oh dear me no, I did not speak to you, you may bring in the plants and go down to the corner and get me some lavender envelopes.

And, I find that I am slightly tired with my morning's work, and with the orders I have to give, I think I shall rest a moment before I go into any further business. And anyway, I am half expecting a client, I want to appear ladylike and at ease.

Men have funny ideas about working. They seem to want to advertise the fact that they transact business. Ah, how can I be appreciative enough to be the delight of this sweet manless office?

SHAH'S POTS AND PANS.

Kitchen Utensils and Cutlery Worth A Cool $25,000,000.

(Constantinople Correspondence New York Sun.)

A committee of experts recently valued the cutlery and kitchen utensils of the Shah of Persia at $25,000,000. No other court in the world, not even Spain, has such an elaborate collection of valuable pots and pans as the Persian monarch. They are all covered with a heavy coating of gilt on the inside. Even the plainest of the utensils in the Shah's kitchen is of silver.

The salt and sugar canisters that are used in the kitchen are massive silver devices, while the spoons, forks, plates and dishes used in the dining room are made of solid gold, and the majority of the knives have handles encrusted with many precious stones.

White and tan colored shoes are in the lead.

It's a stand-still race between a woman's age and waist measurement.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

MRS. COFFEY.

This is what MRS. GENETTI E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135.

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good.

"I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

SALE OF LOTS

CASTLE BETWEEN THIRD and FOURTH STREETS.

Pursuant to a decree of the Superior Court for New Hanover County, in a cause therein pending, by John T. Howe, et al., petitioners, against Willard Howe, et al., defendants, I will sell at Public Auction, on Monday, the 8th day of July, A. D. 1912, at the county court house, at 12 o'clock M., the following described property:

FIRST LOT: Beginning in the Southern line of Castle street, at a point 36 feet east of Third street, running thence eastwardly with the Southern line of Castle street 40 feet; thence southwardly, parallel with Third street 104 feet, thence westwardly parallel with Castle street 40 feet, and thence northwardly parallel with Third street 104 feet to the beginning. This lot has a one-story house upon it, with outhouses.

SECOND LOT: Beginning in the southern line of Castle street at a point 76 feet east of Third street, running thence eastwardly with the southern line of Castle street 40 feet, thence southwardly parallel with Third street 104 feet, thence westwardly parallel with Castle street 40 feet, thence northwardly parallel with Third street 104 feet to the beginning. This is a vacant lot.

The foregoing lots are part of Lots 1 and 2, in Block 75, according to the official plan of the City of Wilmington.

TERMS OF SALE: The lots will be offered separately, as above described, and then as a whole, and will be sold to the highest bidder, for cash, subject to the examination of title and confirmation by the court. GEORGE F. MEARES, Attorney je9-law4w Commissioner.

FACTS ABOUT THE CONVENTION HALL.

The convention will be held in the drill room of the Fifth regiment armory.

The armory is near the Pennsylvania and B. and O. stations and occupies nearly two city blocks.

It has a floor space of 200 by 300 feet, capable of seating 12,000 people. By the use of temporary and permanent balconies this is being increased to 20,000.

Around the hall are twenty-one smaller rooms that can be used for the meeting of committees and for the press.

The roof is vaulted and at the highest point is more than 100 feet above the floor. Windows are high, and there is good ventilation.

Since the fire Baltimore has been rebuilt, and there are a number of first class new hotels. Average rates will be $3 and $4 a day. In addition citizens' homes will be thrown open.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE Democratic national convention of 1912 returns to the city where the first national convention of that party assembled eighty years ago. Up to and including 1824 presidential nominations were made by committees of congress. In that year the system was attacked, and between that and 1828 various conventions were held in different parts of the country, but no Democratic national convention, properly speaking, was assembled till 1832. That year one gathered at Baltimore and nominated President Andrew Jackson for a second term.

The convention which named Martin Van Buren as Jackson's successor also met in Baltimore, but was a year ahead of time, being held in 1835. The four succeeding national conventions of the party were likewise held in the Maryland metropolis—that of 1840 renominating Van Buren, that of 1844 naming James K. Polk, that of 1848 selecting Lewis Cass and that of 1852 choosing Franklin Pierce. Thus far Baltimore as a Democratic convention city was lucky, four of the five candidates named there having been elected.

With 1852, however, the scepter and the luck departed from Baltimore. Four years later Buchanan was nominated at Cincinnati. In 1860 the Democratic convention first met at Charleston and split into fragments, two of these afterward reassembling in Baltimore and naming two tickets, one headed by Stephen A. Douglas and the other by John C. Breckinridge. A third fragment reconvened at Richmond and indorsed Breckinridge. This splitting of the once proud and triumphant Democracy made possible the election of Abraham Lincoln, and the party of Jefferson and Jackson did not seat another president till 1885.

Lincoln Renominated at Baltimore.

In those days Baltimore was as much the national convention city as Chicago is now. Not only the Democrats, but the Whigs, assembled there, Henry Clay and General Winfield Scott being among the candidates of that party selected in the Maryland city. The Republicans followed suit only once, Abraham Lincoln being renominated in Baltimore in 1864. His Democratic opponent in that campaign was General George B. McClellan, nominated at Chicago.

Only once has a Democratic convention gone to New York city. That was in 1868. Horatio Seymour was its permanent chairman, was sprung as a dark horse candidate and nominated against his protest.

The last Baltimore convention of any party was that of the Democrats, which named Horace Greeley in 1872. Greeley had already been made a candidate by the Liberal Republicans, and there was nothing left for the Democrats but to ratify him, which some of them did with wry faces. In its outcome that ticket was as ill starred as the one headed by Douglas twelve years earlier.

It is an interesting coincidence that the first Democratic convention met in Baltimore just eighty years ago and the last one exactly forty years ago.

Since 1872 the Democratic convention cities and nominees have been as follows: 1876, Samuel J. Tilden at Chicago; 1880, Winfield Scott Hancock at Cincinnati; 1884, Grover Cleveland at Chicago; 1888, Grover Cleveland at St. Louis; 1892, Grover Cleveland at Chicago; 1896, William J. Bryan at Chicago; 1900, William J. Bryan at Kansas City; 1904, Alton B. Parker at St. Louis; 1908, William J. Bryan at Denver.

The conclave of this year will be the twenty-first regular Democratic convention held and the ninth to meet in Baltimore. Only fifteen men have been named for president at the twenty previous conventions, and but six of these were elected. Outside of the eight conventions in Baltimore four were held in Chicago, three in St. Louis, two in Cincinnati and one each in New York, Kansas City and Denver.

Everybody Claiming It.

That ought to be enough statistics to hold the most omnivorous eater up of figures. If the average reader is not asleep by this time there is no hope of soothing him to slumber, and we may as well talk about something more interesting and up to date. But don't imagine from this that we are going into the prophet business and make a lot of wild guesses about who will be nominated at Baltimore. Not any prophesying for yours truly. First off, he does not know who will be nominated and holds rather decided opinions that anybody who claims to know is a bigger liar than Roosevelt says Taft is and almost as big as Taft says Roosevelt is. Reason No. 2: Even if he did know, everybody favoring the other fellow would say he didn't and would not be convinced until the convention had acted. After interviewing the managers of the various booms the writer is convinced that every candidate will win, that none will win, that it will be a dark horse, that it will be Bryan, that it will—oh, what's the use? Trying to reconcile the various claims would be making a raving bug out of a wooden Indian.

The press agent is abroad in the land, and he has Ananias, Baron Munchausen and all the other disciples of mendacity looking like the original truthful James. Press agent is not his proper name, however, for a press agent is supposed to tell the truth not without evidence of what that tongue may do with a national convention.

A United Democracy.

The meeting will be under bright auspices. The party will be more nearly united than it has been at any time since 1892. It has more than sixty majority in the national house of representatives, governors of most of the states, a strong working minority of the United States senate that, with the assistance of the La Follette Republicans, often becomes an actual majority; the administration of the two chief cities and of a majority of the other large cities of the country and a prospect of victory that increases with every turn of the political wheel. It faces a foe rent in twain by internecine warfare. It was during the second Cleveland administration that the Democratic party was torn by internal dissensions. As a result it has been out of power for nearly fifteen years. Now the shoe is on the other foot; the Republicans are split and the Democrats are united. Does this mean as long a swing of the pendulum in the other direction?

The historic associations of Baltimore will remind the delegates that the party can look back on more than 116 years of unbroken party existence. The groundwork was laid during the debates on the constitution and the administration of Washington. The actual beginning of the party as a national entity was the candidacy of Thomas Jefferson for the presidency in 1796. Four years later he was elected and for nearly a quarter of a century the Democratic-Republican party held complete sway. Then came the four years hiatus of John Quincy Adams, who called himself a national Republican and was really the founder of the Whig party. After that twelve years of Jackson and Van Buren and then alternating administrations with the Whigs until the clouds of civil war obscured the Democratic sun until its partial re-emergence under Cleveland.

The New Baltimore.

Baltimore is closely associated with much of this history. There met the first Democratic national convention ever held, and there were nominated Jackson, Van Buren, Polk, Cass, Pierce, Douglas and Greeley. It is a very different Baltimore that will greet the Democratic visitors this year. Since the great fire it has been rebuilt into a progressive modern city. In 1910 Baltimore was given a population of 558,485 and was the seventh city in the country. It still is a commercial center for much of the south and still regards Washington as a suburb, although the national capital has nearly two-thirds Baltimore's population. Better than all, the Maryland city still boasts the true southern hospitality.

The scene in a national convention of either of the great parties is one never to be forgotten. It is distinctively American. There is nothing quite like it in all the rest of the world. Here we make our rulers, who for a certain fixed period have more absolute power than any monarch unless it be the czar of all the Russias. Here we shape the policies that control congress. Here we reorganize the parties that rule the states.

The prevailing color scheme of any national convention is made up of the red, white and blue. Flags and bunting are everywhere. The tone theme is one of patriotic music, oratory and enthusiasm. The contest between the supporters of the various candidates is one of lung power. That, of course, is only the surface of the fight, but it is the surface that is seen by the spectator. Down on the floor the delegates are not doing so much cheering, but are engaged in a mighty struggle for votes. But to the onlooker it is a medley of color and of sound. The demonstration when the different candidates are named is a contest of sheer human endurance. The partisans cheer till they are compelled to stop from physical exhaustion. Little flags are waved by thousands of hands. Cheers go up in a volume of sound that drowns the band and merges the individual voices into one continuous roar.

Cheering by the Hour.

Now and then will come a lull when the band can be heard faintly on some patriotic air. First one voice and then another will take it up until the entire vast assemblage is singing. At the end the cheers burst forth once more in mightier volume than at first. Minutes pass, and the uproar continues. Improvised sessions of delegates march about the floor. Everything that can make a noise is brought into requisition, but the human voice dominates all the rest. It howls, it yells, it lets out Indian warwhoops, it trills, it yodels, it hurrahs, after which it yells some more. Some of these demonstrations have lasted an hour. Several of them have continued half an hour.

The scene in the various hotels is as characteristic as that of the convention hall itself. Here the various candidates and state delegations have their headquarters. Here are held the cau-

PLENTY OF PROOF

From People You Know—From Wilmington Citizens.

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced by evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of Wilmington, of people who can be seen at any time. Read the following case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mince, 712 Vollers St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I am very thankful to Doan's Kidney Pills for the great benefit I received from their use. For a long time kidney trouble clung to me and I was caused great annoyance by the kidney secretions. My back ached and I did not seem able to get a minute's peace. Some days I was hardly able to move around to attend to my work. At last I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills from Bellamy's Drug Store and they restored me to good health." (Statement given February 24, 1908.)

Endorses Doan's Again.

Mrs. Mince was interviewed on December 27, 1910, and she said: "I can still speak highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and recommend them as being good for kidney trouble. During the past two years I have taken this remedy and it always has a prompt and beneficial effect."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

its inhabitants, for most of the figures are unfinished, some of them never even having been removed from the quarry. A popular theory is that Easter Island is the sole remains of a continent which was overwhelmed by the sea after a great seismic disturbance. The designs of the stone work bear out this theory, for they are strikingly like some of the ancient Peruvian ruins.

The "Mana" expedition, led by W. Scoresby Routledge and accompanied by geologists and other scientists from the British Museum, will make excavations in an effort to solve the mystery.

A choice pitch on the steps in front of the Stock Exchange has been secured by the Duchess of Marlborough for the sale of roses on June 26th, the date selected by Queen Alexandra for the rose-fete day to be held for the benefit of the hospitals and other charities in which the queen mother and her late husband were interested.

The roses will be sold by 5,000 London women representing all classes, and it is said that at least ten million blossoms will be provided. Prizes have been offered to the women making the largest sales, and leaders of society are vieing with each other in securing the best pitches for this competition. The rose selected by Queen Alexandra for the fete, which she wishes to become an annual affair, will be the wild rose, which has already been christened with the queen mother's name, and the day itself will be known as Alexandra Day.

Polo critics here seem agreed that the Duke of Westminster has assembled the proper stable for horsing a team to send after the American Cup, but they do not agree that the Eaton players are the best four that England can produce for the attempt to lift the trophy.

The opposition to the sending of the Eaton team as the English representatives gained impetus by the showing the Duke's favorites made against the Wild horse in the final of the Whitney Cup, when the Eaton players failed signally to carry their handicap.

It is now hoped that the Duke will give some other players a chance to show what they can do on his ponies.

The feature of the present polo season has been the success of the Argentine team, which, mounted on Argentine ponies, has won both the Whitney and the Social Club's cups. It has also led to the discovery of a new genius in the game in the person of John Traill, the brilliant back of the Argentine four.

German News Items

Berlin, June 22.—Prof. Kuestner, of the Bonn Observatory, has established the presence of uranium and radium in the recently discovered new star of the constellation Gemini. Further study along the lines of his observations may prove the discovery one of tremendous importance as throwing a new light upon the constitution of the sun and the fixed stars, which are themselves the suns of far-off worlds. The new star in the Gemini is marked by the fact that its light varies from periods of great dimness to brilliancy. This, Prof. Kuestner says, is explained by the fact that the star has reached a nebulous mass, contact with which has raised the star to a glowing heat. This mass, however, is of varying density, and consequently the new star's light varies, according as it is in contact with the dense or the more tenuous portions. The finding of radium in the analysis of its spectrum may, in view of what we already know of the light and heat-giving properties of that element, be the first step toward comprehension of the development of our own solar system and of the undiminishing heat and light of the sun.

Sessions of the eighth annual convention of the German Good Templars, held at Freiburg, Baden, in the heart of one of the German wine districts, have been marked by their stormy course, requiring the intervention of the police and the closing of the meetings. After several prohibition advocates had expounded the evil results of alcohol upon the intelligence and moral qualities, a representative of the wine interests in Baden obtained the floor and delivered a fervid plea for the use of alcohol in moderate quantities, declaring this beneficial rather than injurious, and pointing out that the economic prosperity of Freiburg, whose hospitality the Templars were enjoying, depended upon the surrounding vineyards. He was followed by another speaker in the same strain, the remarks being punctuated by applause from sympathizers who had obtained access to the convention, and when a third speaker arose to continue the chairman saw no recourse but to close the sitting.

Much interest is manifested in German educational circles in the visit of the German-American Teachers' League to Germany this Summer. Between 200 and 250 members of this organization, which consists of teachers of German and American schools and colleges, are expected to arrive in Bremen July 12th, and to spend about five weeks in the Fatherland. The tour through Germany will cover nearly all the larger cities, including Bremen, Hamburg, Cologne, Frankfort, Stuttgart, Leipsic and Berlin, as well as many smaller cities of historical or literary interest, like Eisenach, Weimar and Jena. Chief interest will attach to the stop in Berlin, where the 40th annual convention of the organization is to be held.

Preparations are already under way for the entertainment of the visitors. The Prussian Ministry of Education and Worship has appropriated funds for this, and Berlin and Charlottenburg are doing likewise. A great concert at which 2,000 public school pupils will sing, and a reception by the Berlin municipality will be given in their honor in Berlin, and Charlottenburg will take them to see its famous open-air school for weak children in a forest near the city, giving them a picnic luncheon in connection with their visit. Various other entertainments by local teachers' organizations are planned. A handbook describing the public schools of Prussia, and Berlin in particular, is now in preparation by a number of specialists, intended to commemorate the visit of the Americans and give them much pedagogic information about German schools. At Duesseldorf, where an exhibition devoted to city building, improvement and beautifying will be in progress, special efforts will be made to render the visit of the Americans interesting.

EXPORTS TO SOUTH AMERICA

Wonderful Increase During the Past Fiscal Year

Washington, D. C., June 22.—Exports to South America have shown a phenomenal gain in the fiscal year which ends with the present month. Prior to 1911 the total value of exports to South America had never reached 100 million dollars. In 1911, the total was, speaking in round terms, 109 million dollars, and in the current fiscal year which ends with the present month, seems likely to be about 135 million dollars, having more than doubled since 1905.

Argentina is the country showing by far the largest gain in our exports to South America. The figures now available in the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, indicate that the total exports to Argentina for the complete fiscal year will amount to about 55 million dollars, against 23 1-2 million in 1905, having thus considerably more than doubled in the period in question. To Brazil the total exports for the fiscal year will exceed 30 million dollars in value, against 11 million in 1905, an even larger percentage of gain than in the case of Argentina. To Chile the total for the year will amount to about 15 million dollars, against 5 1-2 million in 1905, also a gain of nearly 200 per cent. To Uruguay the figures of exports for the fiscal year which ends with the present month will aggregate about 7 million dollars in value against a little less than 2 million in 1905.

This increase in exports to South America, while occurring in a large number of articles, is especially notable in lumber, leather, mineral oils, and railway material. For example, the exports of lumber to Argentina in the 10 months ending with April last, amounted to 5 3-4 million dollars in value, against 4 million in the corresponding months of last year; and those to other South America, over 3 million dollars, against about 2 million in the corresponding period of the preceding year. Illuminating oil exported to Argentina in the 10 months in question amounted to about 24 million gallons, against about 13 million in the corresponding months a year ago; and lubricating oil, over 4 million gallons, against less than 3 million in the same months of last year. Glazed kid leather exported to Argentina in the 10 months of 1912 amounted to over 1 million dollars in value, against 270 thousand dollars in the corresponding months of the preceding year. Automobiles exported to South America as a whole amounted in the months in question to 1 1-2 million dollars in value, against 688 thousand dollars in the corresponding months of the preciding year.

The total value of exports from the United States to South America as a whole was, ten years ago, in the fiscal year, 1912, 38 million dollars. Five years ago, in the fiscal year, 1907, it was 82 million dollars, and in the current year, as indicated above, will probably be about 135 million dollars, an increase of more than 250 per cent in the decade, and of more than 50 per cent in the last five years.

ARRESTED GROWTH

Necessary to Get Republican Votes to Win Election

(New York World).

The full strength of the Democratic party is not sufficient to elect a President this year. It is probably true that any one of several aspirants might carry the organization, such as it is, solidly to the polls, but what good would that do if he failed to gain the favor of dissatisfied Republicans, independents and young men who have not yet voted a Democratic ticket?

We have only to refer to the election tables for sixteen years past to see that numerically the Democratic party is in a decline:

	Dem.	Rep.
1896	6,502,925	7,104,779
1900	6,358,133	7,207,923
1904	5,077,911	7,623,486
1908	6,409,104	7,678,908

In 1906 the Republican vote increased almost 2,000,000 and the Democratic vote almost 1,000,000. Since then the Republicans have gained steadily and the Democrats have lost. Nearly 100,000 fewer Democrats went to the polls in 1908 than in 1896, and yet the population has increased more than 20 per cent. A party that does not grow cannot elect Presidents.

How is the Democratic party to gain new life and new strength? Not by subscribing to the Bourbonic doctrine that "any Democrat" can be elected! Not by choosing for leadership a man, no matter how acceptable to organization Democrats he may be, who makes no powerful appeal elsewhere! Not by refusing the proffers of assistance which hundreds of thousands of good citizens long estranged from Democracy are making on every hand!

Harmon or Clark or Underwood might hold the Democratic vote at the six million figure, but to be elected the candidate must be one who can enter the seven million class. Of whom can that be said except Woodrow Wilson? What other Democrat has so firm a hold upon his own party and at the same time is so generally acceptable to independents and liberally disposed Republicans?

SEARCHLIGHT ON THE SKY

Mrs. E. A. Bishop, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight, so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills. For years I was a great sufferer from organic female troubles and had despaired of ever being well again, but found relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I tried as a last resort."

For nearly forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills.

SUMMER VACATION HINTS.

What Should be Done to Keep in Good Health.

Summer vacation season is here. Everybody wants to have a "bully" good time and come back to work feeling like a new person. Here is the way to do it. Exercise moderately during vacation; loaf enough to relax, but not enough to soften; get a good, refreshing bath every day and eight hours sleep every night. Avoid prolonged immersion, especially in fresh water. Keep your head covered from the sun, unless you wish to invite heat prostration and even baldness. Pure water! Pure milk! Fresh fish! Be sure about these things in hot weather. Avoid surface wells and springs in the vicinity of dwellings, or boil the water. Protect food from the house fly. Avoid the common swimming pool with its bacteria laden water, or at least do not dive into it and take the risk of infection. Look out for the mosquito that flies in the early evening.

Move on Now!

says a policeman to a street crowd, and whacks heads if it don't. "Move on now," says the big, harsh mineral pills to bowel congestion and suffering follows. Dr. King's New Life Pills don't bulldoze the bowels. They gently persuade them to right action, and health follows. 25c at R. R. Bellamy.

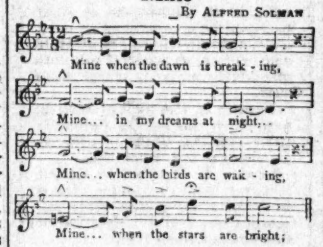
COPYRIGHT OF THIS SONG BROUGHT $15,000

Fancy Price Paid for the Love Ballad Called "Mine."

The value of a profitable copyright on a popular song was demonstrated yesterday in New York when a Philadelphia man, Joseph Morris by name, paid the fanciful price of $15,000 for the copyright of the song "Mine."

Here is an extract of the song, clipped from a sheet of the music just received:



"Mine"
By Alfred Solman
Mine when the dawn is break - ing,
Mine... in my dreams at night,..
Mine... when the birds are wak - ing,
Mine... when the stars are bright;

The words of the song appear to be no better than a thousand others, but the music is quite classical. It has thirty-odd harmonies, aimed, evidently, to educate the voice. The few copies that reached Wilmington yesterday were eagerly seized by the fair sex. The song is out in five different keys.

What's The Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartic pills or nasty waters, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. O. R. Crae, Wellford, S. C., and Mrs. Helen Sheets, La Grange, N. C., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative, and its very mildness and freedom from griping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks generally—people who need a gentle bowel stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

THE WEEK'S NEWS IN BRIEF

Important Happenings, Day by Day, Compiled and Republished for the Benefit of the Busy Man and the Week-End Reader—New York Markets for Each Day of the Six.

SUNDAY.

Roosevelt made a spectacular entry into Chicago yesterday, holding a consultation with his campaign managers and taking personal charge of the fight immediately after his arrival.

Secretary Knox yesterday replied to Cuban Speaker Ferrara with a copy of the message sent by the State Department to the American minister in Cuba.

S. Davies Warfield leaves today for the South to make an inspection of the Seaboard Air Line Railway.

The National Committee in its concluding session at Chicago yesterday gave Taft 62 delegates from Texas, Virginia, Washington and the District of Columbia, and Roosevelt six from Texas and North Carolina.

A crisis was reached in the convention fight at Chicago last night and all sorts of rumors were heard. One had it that the anti-Taft forces would take possession of the convention hall Monday night to prevent organization.

In complaint filed yesterday against the Observer Company, of Charlotte, Messrs. A. E. Gonzales and J. C. Hemphill allege they were ousted from their just profits and rights by a conspiracy and an order restraining the collection of notes of the former was given.

Harvey Garber, National committeeman from Ohio, who was in Baltimore yesterday, gave out the information that a fight would be made against the casting of his State's votes as a unit.

Quiet reigned at Perth Amboy, N. J., yesterday, but the authorities feared rioting by strikers would be renewed today.

New York markets. Money on call nominal. Spot cotton closed quiet. Flour quiet. Wheat, spot easy; No. 2 red 1.17, domestic basis and export 1.17 f.o.b. afloat to arrive. Corn, spot easy; export 81 1-4 f.o.b. afloat to arrive. Turpentine steady. Rosin quiet.

TUESDAY.

President Taft yesterday vetoed the Army Appropriation bill which would legislate Major General Wood out of office, and gave six specific reasons for taking that course.

The boom for Mayor Wm. J. Gaynor for President was started yesterday with the arrival of many of his supporters at Baltimore. Champ Clark's friends made it known that they would wage no fight on the temporary chairmanship.

A mighty welcome was given Roosevelt last night when he delivered his fighting speech at the Auditorium Theatre in Chicago. He outlined his plan of attack and intimated he would bolt if necessary.

Great uncertainty existed last night as to the result of the Republican convention which opens in Chicago today. Both sides claimed they would have a majority. The Roosevelt forces held a great demonstration and their rivals were busy planning the line of attack.

All of the Georgia delegation to the Republican convention went on record for Taft yesterday, although two white delegates served notice they would disregard instructions and vote for Roosevelt.

Hearing was begun in Baltimore yesterday on the petition of the Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron Co., to restrain the Baltimore Trust Co., from selling $1,250,000 worth of refunding bonds pledged as collateral to secure a note for $330,000.

New York markets: Money on call steady, 2 1-8 to 2 7-8 per cent; ruling rate 2 7-8. Spot cotton quiet, 10 points lower. Flour quiet and steady. Wheat, spot firm; No. 2 red 1.18, domestic basis and export 1.18 f.o.b. afloat to arrive. Corn, spot easier; export 80 f.o.b. afloat. Turpentine firm.

WEDNESDAY.

Democrats at Baltimore yesterday halted in their pro-convention activity and watched the Republican fight at Chicago. Alton B. Parker seems likely to be selected temporary chairman.

The Republican convention at Chicago yesterday elected Elihu Root, nominated by the Taft forces for temporary chirman, over Governor McGovern, of Wisconsin, nominated by the Roosevelt men, by a majority of 56 votes and adjourned at 7:45 P. M., until this morning.

Congressman Godwin yesterday defeated Solicitor N. A. Sinclair in the Sixth district Congressional primary by approximately 2,500 majority and carried every county in the district.

The first matter to be taken up by the Republican convention today will be consideration of Governor Hadley's motion to unseat the contested delegates.

Justice Charles E. Hughes yesterday declared that his decision not to stand for the Presidential nomination was final.

Three persons were burned to death and two seriously injured in a fire which destroyed the English building at Waycross, Ga., last night.

The Republican convention at Chicago yesterday was marked by serious business from the drop of the hat, all the leaders confining their energies to the work of the day and not in organizing demonstrations.

Eight uninstructed delegates from Vermont to the Democratic Convention at Baltimore were elected yesterday.

New York markets: Spot cotton closed quiet. Flour steady. Wheat, spot easy; No. 2 red 1.18 domestic basis to arrive and export 1.18 1-2 to arrive. Corn, spot easy, export 79 1-2 f.o.b. afloat. Turpentine easy. Rosin quiet.

THURSDAY

The Roosevelt forces met their second defeat in the Chicago convention yesterday when on a test vote in regard to ousting 92 contested delegates they lost 564 to 510. The outstanding feature of the day's sessions was a remarkable demonstration to Governor Hadley, of Missouri, which caused many to think he will be offered as a compromise candidate. The convention adjourned at 5:50 P. M. to meet again today at 1 P. M., Eastern time.

Unexpected opposition developed yesterday to the selection of A. B. Parker as temporary chairman of the Democratic convention, W. J. Bryan and his friends coming out squarely against him.

The long expected crash in the Republican ranks came last night when the Roosevelt forces, acting under the direction of their leader, began to lay plans for independent action in the convention. Roosevelt definitely stated ed he would bolt the convention if the contested Taft delegates were seated.

Roosevelt members of the Credentials Committee broke through the doors last night and the meeting ended in a row. They withdrew in person and in effect all of the Roosevelt contests that had been scaled down from 92 to 78.

The credentials committee in session at Chicago adjourned until 9 A. M. today.

The Missouri delegation to the Republican convention held a caucus last night for the purpose of launching a Hadley boom for President and some of the leaders suggested the ticket be Hughes and Hadley.

New York markets: Money on call steady, 2 to 2 3-4 per cent.; ruling rate 2 3-4; offered at 2 1-2. Spot cotton closed quiet, 10 points lower. Flour quiet. Wheat, spot irregular; No. 2 red 1.18 domestic basis and export 1.1/ 1-2 f.o.b. afloat. Corn, spot firm; export 79 3-4 f.o.b. afloat. Turpentine quiet. Rosin easy.

FRIDAY.

Former Judge Alton B. Parker was yesterday selected by the Arrangements Committee as temporary chairman of the Democratic Convention at Baltimore. W. J. Bryan and his friends will probably wage a fight on the floor against his selection.

The Republican convention held two sessions yesterday, both together lasting only five minutes. Adjournment was taken to allow the Credentials Committee to finish its work. A remarkable demonstration followed adjournment.

A decided sensation was sprung in the Harry K. Thaw hearing yesterday, when a State's witness testified to some startling facts concerning Thaw's early life.

Col. Roosevelt called his political advisers and supporters together at Chicago yesterday and issued a lengthy statement declaring he would continue to fight for his principles, even if he had to run as an independent candidate.

The betting on the Harvard-Yale boat race today favors the Crimson crew.

Roosevelt last night indicated that under certain conditions he might withdraw from the Republican party and take the lead in the formation of a new one. His followers will make their last stand today on the report of the Credentials Committee, and if unsuccessful will refuse to vote, and when the regular convention has completed its work they will organize a separate one.

The Credentials Committee held a harmonious all night session last night to have their report ready for the Republican convention today.

New York markets: Money on call steady, 2 5-8 to 2 7-8; ruling rate 2 3-8; closing bid 2 5-8; offered at 2 3-4. Spot cotton closed steady unchanged. Flour was firmly held. Wheat, spot firm; No. 2 red 1.18 domestic basis and export 1.17 1-2 f.o.b. afloat. Corn, spot firm; export 80 3-4 f.o.b. afloat. Turpentine steady. Rosin quiet.

SATURDAY.

W. J. Bryan began stirring up trouble yesterday by telegraphing prominent Democrats throughout the country asking them to join him in the fight against Judge Parker's election as chairman of the Democratic convention. Developments yesterday gave promise of a hot fight at the convention in Baltimore next week.

The Taft forces were still in complete control of the Republican convention yesterday and voted to seat all the contested delegates reported on by the Credentials Committee. The convention adjourned at 7:38 to meet today at 11 A. M., and it is thought a nomination may be made and all business completed by Sunday morning.

Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw yesterday testified at her husband's hearing and protested bitterly when called upon to repeat the details of her relations with Stanford White.

Colonel Roosevelt announced last night that he would not allow his name to be presented to the Republican convention as at present constituted as he deems it an "illegal" body. He plans to hold a convention later and head an independent ticket.

The Credentials Committee of the Republican convention had practically completed its work in passing on all contested delegates last night, the decisions in each case tallying with those of the National committee.

New York markets: Money on call steady, 2 1-2 to 3 per cent.; ruling rate 2 3-4. Spot cotton closed quiet, 5 points higher. Flour steady. Wheat, spot easy; No. 2 red 1.18, domestic basis and export 1.17 1-2 f.o.b. afloat. Corn, spot easy; export 80 1-4 f.o.b. afloat. Turpentine steady. Rosin quiet.

SAVED ON ICE FLOES.

Simple Way in Which Titanic Victims Could Have Been Rescued.

London, June 22.—"There is widespread regret among the hardy fisherfolk of Newfoundland that there was nobody aboard the Titanic to suggest the obviously simplest and most effective method of saving the whole 2,500 people on board. This could have been done by simply utilizing the ice floes in the vicinity as gigantic rafts, to which the passengers and crew might have been transferred," writes the Hon. P. T. McGrath, a member of the legislative council of Newfoundland, in the weekly "Canada."

"It seems incredible," he proceeds, "that in all the immense multitude of people aboard the liner nobody thought of this simple solution. It is one that would have immediately commended itself to a Newfoundlander, and it is one that has already won historical recognition through the most amazing escape in the whole annals of authentic adventure.

"I refer to the famous ice floe journey of the survivors of the Arctic steamship Polaris, who in April, 1873, were picked up by the Newfoundland sealing steamer Tigress on an ice floe on the Grand Banks, after having drifted some 1,600 miles on this precarious foothold, their absolutely unique voyage having occupied 193 days.

"The ship had been crushed in the ice in North Greenland waters the previous November, and, as it is the invariable practice in these regions, they abandoned the ice-gored hull and took to the floes in order to reach the land, but a storm coming up the floe they had established themselves on was driven Southward, and for six months it was their floating home until rescue reached them on the Grand Banks.

"This, however, though the most remarkable case of its kind, is by no means the only case of shipwrecked people escaping death by taking refuge on an iceberg. Whenever a Newfoundland sealing steamer is crushed by the pack—as happens to one or other of the flotilla almost every Spring—the crew at once betake themselves to the nearest floes with their clothing, provisions, boats, and other impediments and there remain until some others of the fleet come upon them and take them aboard. They are not dismayed by the prospect of a day's or a week's detention.

"Fishing crews making their way to Labrador in the early Summer resort to the same expedient when their ships are crushed, and there are numerous cases on recod where these people—men, women and children—have been adrift for several days before being picked up. Scores of such tales could be told, where codfishers and seal-hunters have escaped from peril by this simple expedient. Those aboard the Titanic might just as easily have done the same.

"Any number of fragments were available to which the first boatloads could have been transferred, while the boats made a second and third trip to the ship and brought off the remainder of the people. The women and children from Newfoundland vessels obliged to leave their beds in the darkness of night have survived experiences of this kind for from three to seven days, and therefore it is unlikely that any great number of those on the Titanic, however delicately nurtured, or however poorly equipped for this enforced imprisonment on an ice islet, would have suffered any ill effects."

ADVERTISING.

Harrison Emerson Tells What Makes Business Wheels Revolve.

(From an address delivered by Harrington Emerson, of New York, at the Dallas Convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

Consider three of the most attractive and beautiful things that live—flowers, fruit, women. It is from them that we shal learn about the soul of advertising.

The flower wants the bee and the butterfly to help it. If it is not helped it will not ripen into fruit, it will fade, wither and die. It must advertise. So it decks itself out with all imaginable beauty of form and color, it pours out perfume that is carried miles afar. Those who scent the perfume, those whose eyes are charmed by the color and form, hasten to where the flower is

In the flowers and in the fruits you can find the soul of advertising, and also concrete, definite examples of successful advertising practice.

The soul of advertising, as of other psychological control of humanity, consists in first liking the one you are claiming you serve so that he will in turn like you. There is a gulf between getting up as good a watch as can be made for the money and asking a dollar for it, and taking a man's dollar and giving him as little as possible in return. There is a tremendous difference between running the safest steamers in the world, incidentally also the fastest and most luxurious as are the Cunarders, and charging high prices for the tickets and giving speed and luxury and neglecting every underlying moral principle of efficiency.

Therefore, the soul of advertising further consists in making the client, the buyer serve commercial ends by first giving him what he most needs, in such agreeable form that he is willing and eager to purchase. A dinner prepared by a French chef is more healthy, more digestible than one prepared by the unskilled cook and incidentally it tastes so good that we are willing to pay three times as much for it. The whole aim of the good cook is to put what is good, not what is bad, in palatable form. Therefore, the fact is decognized that the more solid benefits are etherialized, are spiritualized, are made romantic not by direct appeal to the grosser instincts of self-preservation, race preservation and parasitism, three major instincts but by appeals of color, of perfume and of taste. The flower never advertised the fact that it had proteids and hydrocarbons, very useful to bees and butterflies as food and building materials. It advertised color and beauty, and aroma and lusciousness and it gave with these qualities transcendent food value. Woman does not advertise her usefulness, she advertises her attractiveness, and the woman who makes good gives also the real essentials, a whole life of self-effacing devotion.

To what extent have advertisers grasped the soul of advertising?

All a woman needs to believe gossip is to know it isn't so.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

Every old sore is due to the ulceration of flesh tissues. The superficial abrasion or opening may have come as the result of a scratch, burn, cut, or some other wound, but the place remains open and of a chronic nature because the tissues and flesh fibres beneath the skin are in an unhealthy condition from a polluted blood supply.

Even if it were possible to subdue the ulceration of the flesh and produce an antiseptic and cleanly condition of the sore with medicines applied to the external opening, such treatment could not bring about any permanent curative results. Deep down in the blood there is a continual cause at work to prevent the place from healing.

If we expect a permanent cure it is not the SORE but the BLOOD which must be cleansed. Then the morbid matter and infectious germs will be destroyed, and the flesh, becoming healthy, will knit and join together, and the ulcer can no longer exist. We do not mean to say one should never use any external treatment for an old sore, for we realize that some salves, lotions, etc., are often very soothing to the irritated and painful flesh. But the person who depends on such measures alone, and makes no effort to purify the blood, will never find a cure, and the place is sure to grow worse and enlarge.

In 1877 I had my leg badly cut on the sharp edge of a barrel. A great sore formed, and for years no one knows what I suffered with the place. I tried, it seemed to me, everything I had ever heard of, but I got no relief. At last I began the use of S. S. S., and continued it until it removed all the poison from my blood and made a complete and permanent cure of the sore.
JNO. ELLIS.
108 Wyckoff St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Only by cleansing the blood of the poisonous cause can old sores be cured. S. S. S. heals them by going down into the circulation and removing the cause from the blood. When this has been done there is no longer left any inflammatory impurity or infectious matter to irritate the place, and nature causes the natural and certain healing of the ulcer. When S. S. S. has purified the blood and the place is once more nourished with pure, rich blood, then every symptom disappears, and it is not a temporary cure, but the place is firmly and solidly healed from the bottom to the outer skin. S. S. S. is recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, and therein lies its ability to cure old sores. It is purely vegetable, containing no mineral in any form, and its fine tonic effects are always helpful in overcoming the impure systemic effects of an old sore.

We have a special treatise on Old Sores which we will be glad to send free to all who desire it. It contains the statements of many cured persons as to the value of S. S. S. We will also be glad to send you any medical advice you desire free of charge.

THE APPEAL OF DEMOCRACY

Convincing Reasons Why Young Men Should Remain In Party—Conceded That Democrats Will Carry Country

Greensboro, N. C., June 22.—Many and convincing are the reasons why at this time the principles of Democracy should appeal to young men more than Republican doctrines. If you should reverse the question and ask me to give one reason why the Republican party should at this time appeal to young men, I confess that I should be unable to do so. Thos. Jefferson and his associates established a Democracy in this country which demands that government shall be so administered as to protect the weak and strong alike, and afford equal opportunity to all men to pursue the ordinary vocations of life, enjoy the profits of their labor, and to fully protect them in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. No finer political creed has ever been promulgated since the beginning of time, and while its wisdom and justice appeals to the man of middle age, and affords protection and assurance to the older man weakened by age and cares, it stronger appeals to the young man who, in the very nature of things, has longer to live, and is therefore more vitally interested in seeing to it that he encourages that system of government and that political party which offers the fullest and justest guaranty to him that he shall have an equal chance in life with every man, and that no artificial hobbles created by law shall be imposed upon him in the race of life.

It seems to me that no young man with refinement of feeling and real political convictions could afford at this time to cast his lot with the Republican party, when the two great leaders of that party, one a President, and the other an ex-President, are going up and down the country branding each other as corrupt demagogues and malicious liars. The very serious question that confronts every young man who contemplates aligning himself with the Republican party is as to which warring faction he will join. Should he espouse the cause of Mr. Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, and apparently a large part of the Republican voters of this country declare that no honest man should follow Mr. Taft, because he has violated the pledges of his platform and has broken faith with the people. If he contemplates going into the camp of the "untamed lion hunter," and organizer of the "Ananias Club," President Taft and a large part of the intellectual and cultured members of the Republican party throughout the country say that his appeal is that of the neurotic and blatant demagogue, that he has stolen all of his political teachings from Mr. Bryan, and that if a voter believes in these professions the only honest and consistent thing to do is to vote for the Democratic party, which originated them.

I believe that the average man, whether he be Democrat or Republican, wants to be a good citizen and to do his duty to his country and his God. Such men will not long serve under the banner of any party or follow the lead of any man that bases its appeal for support upon the promise of 'special privileges to the favored class," or by an appeal to the passion and greed of an unsuspecting mass.

Lastly, the Democracy of today should appeal more strongly to the young man for the reason that it is almost universally conceded now that the affairs of this government for the next four years will certainly be administered by a Democratic President and Congressmen, and in order for his vote to count and his influence to be felt let him join the hosts of the victorious.

HOW TAFT LOST NERVE

In Discussing Tariff Bill Said; "I Will Veto It"

Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, writing his Autobiography in the July American Magazine, reports some interesting views he had with President Taft when the famous Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill of 1909 was under consideration. Following is an extract:

"When the tariff bill passed the House, therefore, after being bitterly opposed by the House insurgents as the thoroughly bad measure that it was, I felt at liberty to call upon the President and talk with him about it. I still had hope that he would keep faith with the people. He agreed with me, on that occasion, that the bill was not a compliance with platform pledges, and he said distinctly that unless it were thoroughly overhauled he would veto it. I suggested to the President that it was plainly his duty now to transmit a message to Congress making it clear that the House bill was in violation of the pledges of the party and against the public interests:

"'Well,' he said, 'I don't much believe in a President's interfering with the legislative department while it is doing its work. They have the responsibility and I have mine. And if they send that bill to me, and it isn't a better bill than it is now I will veto it.'

"I suggested that if he remained silent he would never find himself able, after the record was made uu, to turn about and fall upon Congress with a veto. His answer came quick and strong:

"'You and your associates in the Senate go ahead, criticise the bill, amend it, cut down the duties—go after it hard. I will keep track of your amendments. I will read every word of the speeches you make, and when they lay that bill down before me, unless it complies with the platform, I will veto it.'

"And he brought his fist down on the desk with a thump to emphasize the firmness of his purpose.

"'Very well,' 'Mr. President, but I predict that when it passes the Senate it will be a far worse measure than it is now.'

"'Well,' he retorted, 'I will show you.'"

I think the greatest man I have known is a true "friend in need," and the greatest thing I can say of him is that he is "so human." It is not human nature to love the sort of benefactors who sit up high and dispense kindness with a condescending air to "God's patient poor" (of which we are whom).

We are not many of us angels. We have our little weaknesses and vanities and we like to have them indulged. When we are lonely and a little discouraged and out of sorts—with everything going wrong, it is the hand that reaches out through the dark and takes us by the hand, that counts—The simple word that reassures, and the quiet smile that comprehends, that makes everything splendidly worth while again. A friend is a person who lets you alone a good deal when everything is going along all right, according to someone's definition—and there are lots of times when we want to be let alone, too. But it is somebody warm and human and full of understanding that we need when the world gets all upside-down wise—and I am thankful that there are that sort of folks. They do so help one to enjoy one's misery, when every else fails.

That ye be all things to all men, is an injunction that is appalling in its enormity, but it simply means "be human" and how human, was expressed very delightfully by one of the characters in a story I read not long ago. This clever woman declared that in this world one was obliged to be all things to all people in order to carry out the apostolic injunction, as well as to sail more smoothly along one's course; that in order to do these things one must be possessed with some of the guile of the serpent. She demonstrated the truth of her assertion, by turning a very narrow, selfish man's weapons against himself.

Being lacking in conceit, I would not dare dream of being all things to all men; but I would so love to live that after I am gone some lonely soul might say "She held me when all the world passed by on the other side."

I think true religion is helpfulness. I haven't much patience with the jingle of the missionary boxes, for the heathens across the sea. "And I have to give this dollar I had for something ese, because it would look funny not to. Everybody does, you know! When the starveling at the back gate is dying, slowly polsoned by the unsanitary conditions around, and fairlystarving—dying for a little human sympathy. A few words are about the least you could give. But dear, me; there is such a rustle and bustle these days we don't have time to see after all these little things. And anyway, there's the associated charities, convenient place to send al the old rubbish when we clean house in the Spring.

There's charity and charity, and about the coldest thing in the world is the long-distance impersonal kind. The giving away all that trash that is in your way, don't you know?

If while life lasts you can help some poor devil by initiating him into the mysteries of a bottle of disinfectant, it is well worth while. So many deeds seem small to thhe doer, when they are indeed the very sunlight in the life of some poor sick-abed person. This is religion. It isn't long-faced sanctimonious religion, too-good-for-every-day-religion, but it's the happy sort—glad you're alive and helpful sort.

Here's somebody's definition of success. I want to quote it:

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men, the trust of pure women, and the love of little children, who has filed his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfection poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauties, or failed to express them; who has looked for the best in others, and given them the best he had; life was an inspiration, his memory a benediction."

And all of those things are "so human."

TO REDUCE COST OF LIVING

Most Important Question Before the American People Today

Washington, D. C., June 22.—How is the cost of living to be reduced? This is the most important question before the American people. Its solution is more vital far than the identity of the next President.

Under the present system of excessive protection, those who toil are each year finding it more difficult to make a living, while the comparative handful of millionaires who chiefly reap the benefit of this toil spend their time in idleness and dissipation, their fortunes meanwhile increasing in proportion to the cost of livng.

The result is that many Americans, particularly the hard-working poor, are becoming plainly disgusted with the way things are going; disgusted even with this form of government, and are turning to socialism.

This feeling on the part of the wage-earner is simply history repeating itself. Extravagance and poverty, the history of republics shows, never made good bed-fellows in a "cradle of liberty." It is obviously important that the high cost of living problem be solved before the unrest grows to greater proportions. The earlier it is solved the better for the republic. Which party will solve it, the Republican party or the Democratic party? The Republican theory has always been that the heavier the tariff tax on things eaten, worn or used by the people, the better for that people. The Democratic theory is that to reduce taxation is to reduce prices. The people must choose between the two policies, the policy of protection or the policy of merely enough tariff to raise sufficient revenue to meet the expenses of the government.

If the Republicans are swept from power on November 5th because of their failure to live up to tariff promises, it will not be the first time that the tariff operated to the same end for the party of protection.

During the war the tariff had been elevated to the skies but afterwards the Democrats tried to have it reduced. By 1880 the Republicans had to notice the demand. They promised downward revision but in 1882 passed a bill making only slight reductions. The public got mad—just like it is now over the Payne-Aldrich bill—and in 1884 elected Cleveland.

When the Republicans got into power again they boosted the tariff, which had been lowered by the Democrats. Prices went up, the rank and file became indignant, and in 1892 again made Grover Cleveland President.

If in order to be convinced that the present policy of excessive protection is a mistake, the American public simply demands evidence that workers in the most highly protected industries receive no protection whatsoever, then the country will go overwhelmingly Democratic this Fall. The evidence is accessible.

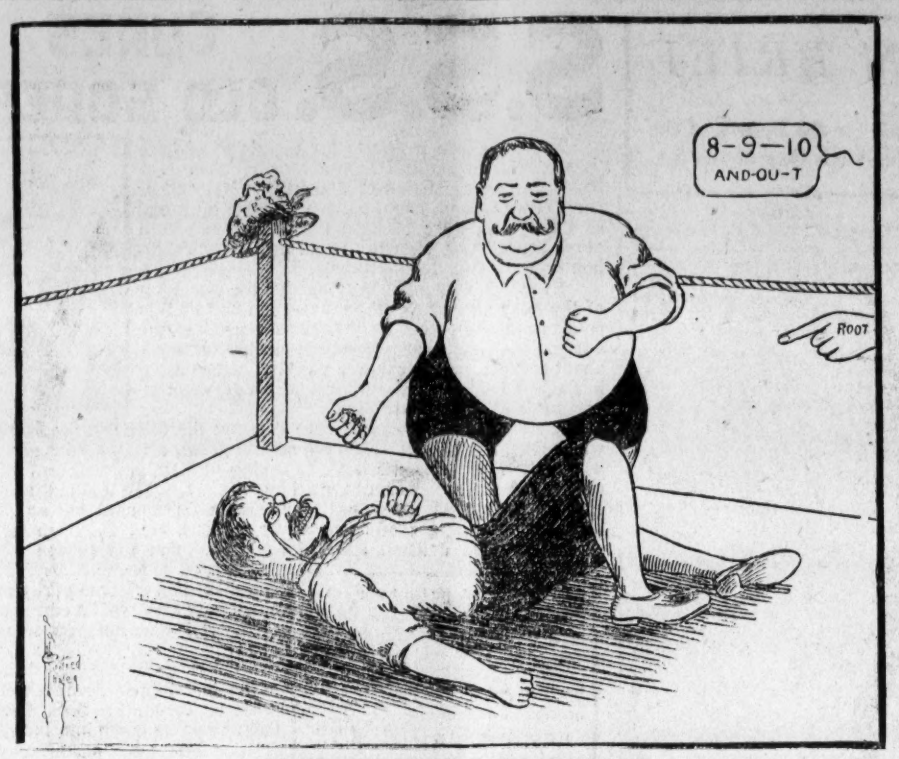
The Lawrence, Mass., strike revealed that the men, women and children workers in the great woolen mills—the most highly protected industry of all—receive $5, $6 and $7 a week wages for full time. The Stanley committee showed that workers in the blast furnace—work 12 hours a day, seven days a week, and are miserably treated and underpaid.

And now comes the most damning revelations of all, in the report of the New York Factory Investigating Commission, showing that there are 296,000 women at work in the highly protected factories of New York cities, and that the averages weekly wage of these women toilers is $5. The proprietors of the factories told the investigators time and again that they 'use women in place of men wherever possble, as they are cheaper and do not strike for better wages or conditions."

Evening slippers of satin, lace and brocade were never so dainty nor expensive as now.

Tea gowns of barbaric splendor are worn by those who fancy the bizarre in dress.

Directoire styles in coats, bodies and neckwear have promise of an increased vogue.



ANOTHER "WHITE HOPE" GONE.

The Bitter End

(From the New York Sun).

You have probably often heard a person say, "I will follow it to the bitter end" or something to that effect, but very few persons know that this is a nautical term and is borrowed from a ship's cable.

If you have ever been on a big ship you must have noticed two big pieces of wood sticking up out of the deck forward, alongside each other. They sometimes have a windlass between them and they are used to secure the cable that goes to the anchor. These pieces of wood are called the bitts.

When the ship comes to anchor and the cable is paid out, all that part of it which is abaft or behind the bitts is called the bitter end of the cable. In a storm or in poor holding ground for anchors the more cable that is paid out the better the anchor will hold, and when the captain is at all doubtful he pays out his cable to the bitter end sooner than risk any harm to his ship.

Deep capelike collars of lace or embroidered linen are to be worn with plain dresses of colored linen.

Two-tone straw hats are extremely popular. The facing is of the darker shade.
